OUTLINES.

John W. Kern, Democratic nominee for Vice President, still contends that the letter published in the New York Times, said to have been written by ex-President Grover Cleveland is of spurious nature, and in answer to a query from the Times he produces evidence to support the same. He was accorded an enthusiastic ovation at Macon, Ga., last night——President Roosevelt has designated General Luke E. Wright as the Government' representative to the Southern Commercial Congress at Washington. The President is manifesting much interest in the outcome of the Congress, which will be for the welfare of the South——Three important State's witnesses in the Hains case, who were officers at Fort Hamilton have been recently transferred outside the jurisdiction of the New York court. District Attorney Darrin will appeal to Washington to have the men returned to Queens county to testify in the case——President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, bitterly arraigned Judge Taft in a statement issued from Washington last night, in answer to the latter's charge in his Denver speech in which he stat that the labor leader was "lying to his followers"——Chairman Mack, of the Democratic National committee, stated yesterday that a special fund of $5,000 has been appropriated for the purpose of punishing persons or corporations which endeavors to coerce employes in the National election—— The International Tuberculosis Congress, now in session in Washington, yesterday put itself on record by the adoption of a resolution as opposed to the theory of Dr. Robert Koch of human infection from bovine tuberculosis bacilli. President Roosevelt appeared before the congress and delivered an address——The Thaw trial has already cost New York county $54,837——New York Markets: Moned that labor leader was "lying to his cotton quiet 10 points decline, middling uplands 9.15, middling gulf 9.40. Flour quiet and lower to sell. Wheat easy, No. 2 red 1.04 1-2 to 1.05 elevator. Corn barely steady, No. 2 86 3-4 elevator. Oats quiet, mixed 53. Rosin steady at 2.90 to 2.95. Turpentine steady 39.

Hearst is a sure advocate of publicity of campaign matters. He is going to have it if he has to hire burglars to get the information for him.

If Tammany and McCarren will stand by Bryan he will surely carry New York and that will make him the next President of the United States.

We suppose Treasurer Sheldon of the Republican national committee will be the next to go. This surely is a campaign of winding out of the grafters.

Graft seems to be the order of the day. If all reports are to be believed there are few men in public life who have not been tarred with this stick.

Where do you suppose those letters now are which were stolen from Chairman Hitchcock's office when it was burglarized last Sunday night and who do you suppose paid the man or men who broke into the office?

Roosevelt has been choked off from continuing his controversy with Bryan, so he has opened his guns on the National committee chairman of his own party. He is bound to have something to do with the campaign in one way or another.

The Indiana Legislature whitewashes the Governor of that State who has been charged with attempt to bribe members of the Legislature to pass a prohibition bill. From one end of the country to another come reports of graft and corruption in office.

Kitchin is certainly whooping up the Democrats in this part of the State. The campaign managers have done well in sending good speakers into our section, which has been too much neglected in recent campaigns, resulting in great apathy among members of the party.

We may have a wrong idea on the subject, but it seems to us that neither the President of the Nation nor the Governor of our State should take part in a political campaign. The one is supposed to represent all the people of the Nation and the other all the people of his State irrespective of political affiliations. When a man is elected President or Governor he should cease to be a partisan, but should endeavor to represent the entire populace over which he has been chosen to act as chief executive. If our idea is correct is it a lowering of the dignity of the office and a prostitution of the same for the occupant of either to use the prestige his office gives him in an endeavor to influence public sentiment in favor of one or the other side of a political issue?

VERDICT NOT GUILTY

Young Furman Lee Acquitted of Killing of George Robinson, Colored Boy.

END OF CRIMINAL TERM

Two Weeks For Trial of Civil Cases Begins Tomorrow Morning—Important Case Set For First Day—The Jurors.

After a trial lasting practically all day and after being out only half an hour, a jury empanelled in New Hanover Superior Court yesterday morning, at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon returned a verdict of not guilty as to young Furman Lee, charged with second degree murder in the killing of a colored boy, George Robinson, in the southern part of the city several months ago.

Lee, who has been in jail since early last September, a mistrial of his case having resulted at the July term, was immediately discharged from custody and was received with congratulations by a number of his friends who were seated in the court room, among the number being young E. B. Vann, who was recently so unfortunate as to be incarcerated with Lee, cultivated his acquaintance and liked the young fellow. Lee was represented at the trial by Messrs. Pait & Woody and L. Clayton Grant and they were among the number with members of the jury who gave the "glad hand" to the youthful defendant.

It was after 11 o'clock yesterday morning before a jury was finally selected to try the case, the panel having been finally completed as follows: Leon George, George W. Penny, J. E. Winstead, J. C. Vereen, E. S. Cook, J. M. King, T. O. Norris, W. A. Ellers, J. F. Smith T. E. King, L. Larkins and Lott M. Noble. The State was assisted in the prosecution by Jos. W. Little, Esq., and a large number of witnesses were introduced, all the evidence, however, having been circumstantial. The defense introduced no testimony and went to the jury on the State's showing, T. K. Woody, Esq., opening for the defense, followed by Mr. Little for the prosecution; A. H. Pait, Esq., for the defense and Solicitor Duffy and Mr. Grant, Esq., for the State and defense, respectively, in closing. The argument to the jury was strong on both sides, but the presumption of reasonable doubt as to the defendant's having committed the deed in view of all the circumstances surrounding the case evidently weighed heavily with the jury and the verdict of not guilty was returned.

The evidence in the trial was taken in shorthand by Mr. Meares Harriss, greatly facilitating the progress of the hearing, part of the testimony having been ready for His Honor's charge when the case went to the jury.

The trial of the Lee case leaves not a single capital felony on the docket, though necessarily a number of continuances have been made. Among the number is that of B. Cox, charged with houseburning, in the destruction of his residence, the first toll house, near the city, several weeks ago. It was agreed yesterday to set the case for the first to be tried on the first day of the next term of two weeks, which convenes January 18th.

Continuances were entered yesterday in the following matters: A. B. Clark, assault with deadly weapon and carrying concealed weapon; Sarah Hollingsworth, larceny; W. J. Davis, receiving stolen good in several cases; J. W. Collins, cruelty to animals and assault with a deadly weapon; J. A. Westbrook, seduction; Ralph Kennedy, larceny.

A. B. McKenna, the insurance solicitor arrested this week on a charge of forgery, submitted his case and under the pathetic circumstances, he was let off with the costs.

Case against Gertrude McFarland, charged with receiving stolen goods, was nol prossed with leave. Elsie Allen, assault with deadly weapon, was called and failed.

In calling up the case of Lander Williams, the colored youth convicted the day before after the recess of court of attempting to wreck the Carolina Beach train, Judge Lyon stated that he was satisfied the boy was of a very low order of intelligence but he probably knew right from wrong, if not the consequences of his deed. He regretted that the jury had not brought in a verdict of insane either at the time of the commission of the act or now, so that the prisoner could be sent to the criminal insane department of the State penitentiary. However, he would sentence the boy to six months in jail with instructions to the sheriff to notify his custodians of his condition in order that they may be governed accordingly.

Judgment of $25 and costs previously entered in the case of A. J. James, the Pembroke officer charged with an assault with a deadly weapon, was stricken out and the defendant was allowed until Tuesday to pay the costs. The defendant has been in jail since his offence.

In the case of Fred Hill, previously convicted of housebreaking, his attorney was instructed to draw a commitment to the insane department of the State prison, in accordance with

PUBLIC SCHOOLS TO OPEN

Hundreds of Little Feet Will Hurry to Books and Studies Tomorrow Morning—Outlook Exceedingly Bright For Term.

Hundreds of little feet, and some larger ones, too, for that matter will be hurrying tomorrow morning back to books and studies after a season of vacation and rest during the Summer. The city public schools open tomorrow and that means a whole lot to the something over two thousand white children who are enrolled in the three institutions in Wilmington.

During the past week Superintendent Blair, the teachers and committeemen have been busy as bees preparing for the opening and the outlook is certainly for a most successful year. All the teachers are here and yesterday and the day before at the buildings was taken up with enrollment and classification of many of the grades.

Last year there were enrolled 2,223 white children in the schools of the city and this year there will be many more. At Hemenway last year the total number of enrollments was 891 with an average daily attendance of 665. On yesterday 115 new pupils entered Hemenway. The enrollment at Union School last year was 1,111 with an average daily attendance of 840. Yesterday 128 new pupils presented themselves for enrollment the coming year. The estimated enrollment at the High School is 240, therefore it is seen that the attendance this Fall is going to be a record breaker. The teachers at the various institutions are as follows:

High School—Mr. J. B. Huff, principal; Misses Isabelle Gulley, Agnes Carr, Frederika Jenkins, Susan M. Herr, Lelia M. Jackson, Sara P. Bolles.

Union—Miss M. E. Cook, principal; Miss Josephine Evans, teacher of Domestic Science; Misses. Hester Struthers, Gertrude Bryan, Lelia M. Cobb, Julia Hill, Sara M. Crosswell, Annie McKoy, Elizabeth LeGwin, Adelaide Meares, Maggie Wood, Katie Alderman, Jennie E. Jackson, Maud Kingsbury, Irene Peterson, L. Belle Anderson, Tho. LeGrand, Meta LeGrand, Jane Iredell Green, Eliza Meares, Mrs. Mary D. Parsley and Mrs. Isabelle St. Armand.

Hemenway — Wingate Underhill, principal; Misses. Kate Johnson, Florrie V. King, Augusta Wiggins, Kate Yarborough, Bessie Loder, Margaret Horsfield, Carrie Duffy, Claire Lathrop, Eva Farmer, Sue Boon, Mary A. Bernard, Lydia A. Yates, Annie H. Holmes, Ida Hankins, Mary Best Jones, Jennie D. Wood, Louise Hill.

FUNERAL OF MRS. LUTTERLOH.

Remains Tenderly Laid to Rest Yesterday Morning in Oakdale.

After brief but very impressive concluding funeral services in St. John's Episcopal Church yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. Dr. James Carmichael, D. D., and the Rev. Wm. E. Cox, rector of the parish, the remains of the late Mrs. Anna Cameron Lutterloh, whose sad death in Fayetteville Wednesday night so shocked this community in which she was born and reared, were tenderly laid to rest in the family lot in beautiful Oakdale cemetery.

The services were largely attended by sorrowing friends and relatives of the deceased and family in Wilmington and a large number of very beautiful floral tributes both from Wilmington and out of the city bore testimony to the great love and esteem in which she was held by those who knew her. The funeral hymns were sweetly rendered by the church choir of St. John's. The pall-bearers were Dr. T. S. Burbank, Col. T. C. James, Capt Walter G. MacRae and Messrs A. B. Skelding ,Chas McMillen and Mr Henry J. MacMillian, Jr.

DEATH OF MRS. JANE LANDER

Occurred Friday Night at Hospital Following Long Illness.

Friends will learn with sorrow of the death of Mrs. Jane Lander, wife of the late J. L. Lander, which occurred at the James Walker Memorial Hospital Friday night, following a long illness. The remains were carried to the late home, No. 214 Wright street, where the funeral will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The remains will be interred in Bellevue.

Mrs. Lander was 60 years of age and is survived by two sons, Messrs. F. W. and Walter Lander, two brothers, J. W. and J. R. Guthrie and one sister, Mrs. Mary McCabe, all residents of this city.

Broke Bones in Forearm.

While cranking a gasoline engine in a boat in the river at foot of Market street yesterday about noon, Mr. M. Winner had the misfortune to break the bones in his right forearm. He was taken to the James Walker Memorial Hospital where the injury was given proper attention after which Mr. Winner went to his home.

COMING UNCERTAIN

Hon. John Sharp Williams Cannot Decide Until Today on Wilmington Visit.

AT NEWBERN YESTERDAY

Democratic Leader in House Greeted by Great Crowd in Craven—Strong Address From Native Carolinian—At Raleigh.

Whether Hon. John Sharp Williams, returning from Newbern where he addressed a great audience in the Court House yesterday afternoon, can come to Wilmington for an address here tomorrow afternoon in response to the very urgent invitation forwarded to him yesterday by local Democratic leaders, will not be decided until today or tonight.

At a late hour last night the following telegram was received by President Cameron F. MacRae, of the New Hanover Bryan and Kitchin Club, from Hon. Charles R. Thomas, largely through whose personal influence, the distinguished Mississippian, was brought to Newbern:

"Cameron F. MacRae, President, Bryan and Kitchin Club, Wilmington, N. C.

"Newbern, N. C., Oct. 3.—Mr. Williams cannot tell his plans until he gets the morning mail; he will be here tomorrow and I will do all I can to get him to come to Wilmington. He awaits a letter from the National Committee. CHAS. R. THOMAS."

This will be a very great disappointment to the many Wilmington Democrats who had expected to learn by this morning whether or not they would have the pleasure of hearing him on Monday. The invitation yesterday was not only from Chairman Furlong, of the Executive Committee, and President MacRae, of the Campaign Club, but telegrams were also sent to Mr. Williams and to his host, Mr. Thomas, from the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, that to Mr. Williams expressing a feeling of honor at his presence in the State and extending a cordial invitation for him to visit this port for the purpose of acquainting himself with its possibilities and that to Mr. Thomas extending to him an invitation to come also and thanking him for his efforts in behalf of Wilmington in inducing Mr. Williams to come.

As to Mr. Williams' speech in Newbern yesterday the following special telegram was received by the Star last night:

Newbern, N. C., Oct. 3.—The Hon. John Sharpe Williams, of Mississippi, Democratic floor leader of the House of Representatives opened his campaign in the Court House here this afternoon. The special train reached here at 4:30 and Mr. Williams and party went at once to the Court House where at 4:50 Mr. Williams began his speech to a packed house of ladies and gentlemen from the surrounding country.

Senator F. M. Simmons and Congressman C. R. Thomas sat on the platform while the Second Regiment Band furnished enlivening music.

Congressman Thomas in a very eloquent speech introduced Mr. Williams and claimed him as a North Carolinian by descent and blood. Mr. Williams was at his best and his wit, sarcasm and reason entertained and held the audience from his first word. Mr. Williams said he was a North Carolinian three generations removed and that the principles of Democracy were engraved in him because he is a descendant of the "poor white trash" of North Carolina. He discussed first the panic; second, Taft or Teddy. He discussed the panics and their causes, and declared this a bankers' panic, caused by distrust among depositors of bankers and methods as permitted by the Republican party. The only remedy the Republican party proposed was an India rubber currency with nothing behind it. The Democratic party proposed to increase the currency of depositors, said he was opposed to the Government guaranteeing deposits but in favor of legislation which would force the banks to safeguard the rights of the depositors. The Government requires it of their deposits why should not an individual have it. Every individual or party has a spirit, not Bryan or Taft, but the principle of the party, which will win. Roosevelt could do nothing with his party, the party ignored him and his messages. Only by solid Democratic votes was the rate legislation and employers' liability law passed. If Roosevelt failed, what of Taft. Taft is only a moon on which Roosevelt sunshines. Mr. Bryan is a great man above reproach or challenge, a man with large experience and a great man in every respect. Many differ with him in detail, but little things should not stand in the way of the principles of the Democratic party. Its the whiteman's party and its backbone is in the South. All Democrats should be loyal and not be deceived. It was a great speech and well received. Tonight a reception is being given Mr. Williams in the new Gaston Hotel.

At Raleigh Yesterday.

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 3.—Hon. John Sharp Williams was here a little while today on his way to Newbern, where he speaks tonight under the auspices of the National Democratic Executive Committee, his first of the appointments in the various parts of the country. An effort is being made to arrange for him to speak also in Wilmington Monday before leaving the State but this cannot be decided until tomorrow.

Asked as to the political situation, he said here that he knew no more about it than people generally and not as much as many, but that he believed all signs point to the election of Bryan and Kern.

BIG OCCASION AT BURGAW

Democratic Primaries Held—Railroad Shows in Town—How W. C. Newland Addresses Voters of Pender—Other Notes.

(By Long Distance Telephone.)

Burgaw, N. C., Oct. 3.—This was a great day for Burgaw. What with King and Tucker's Railroad Shows here for two exhibitions, the Democratic primaries, a splendid address by Hon. W. C. Newland, Democratic candidate for the Legislature, a great outpouring of the people from the country, bringing cotton and trading, and the large number of visitors here from Wilmington Presbytery for the annual Day of Prayer of the Woman's Missionary Union, there was nothing lacking to remind the people that Burgaw was indeed a centre of interest.

The Democratic primary for county and legislative offices was largely attended and those who came to vote were delighted with a particularly strong speech, undoubtedly the best of the campaign, by Hon. W. C. Newland. The primary passed off quietly and delegates were named to the county convention to be held on Monday. These primaries were held all over the county today and the indications from the delegates named are that E. A. Hawes, Jr., will be nominated for the Senate, and J. T. Foy for the House. Jesse F. Lucas and Sheriff Atkinson will have a race in convention for the shrievalty of the county.

The Day of Prayer was well attended by the ladies of the Presbytery. The programme with a single exception was carried out as printed and great good no doubt resulted from the gathering. Mrs. Jackson Johnson, of Brunswick, is president of the Union. Lunch was served on the lawn of the church by the ladies of the congregation and those from nearby churches.

Business is brisk, according to the merchants, and the outlook is for a good trade this Fall.

ARRIVALS OF STEAMERS

Handsome German Vessel in Port—British Steamers Arrive and Clear.

The German steamer Adelheid Menzell, Captain Menzel, which arrived yesterday from Hamburg, via Norfolk, with cargo of kainit consigned to Messrs Heide & Co., for the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company, is one of the largest vessels of her type that ever entered the port, registering 3,200 net tons and having a freight capacity of 7,250 tons. This is her maiden voyage and she was much admired along the water front yesterday. She is 400 feet long, over 50 feet beam and is handsomely fitted up with electric lights, call bell and telephone systems.

She discharged part cargo of kainit at Norfolk and proceeded to Wilmington with 3,000 tons, which is being lightered at Point Peter, preparatory to passing up to Almont factory early this week.

The British steamer Dongola, Captain Robinson, from New York, and the British steamer Candleshoe, Captain Patterson, from Boston, arrived in port yesterday, light for cargoes of cotton; vessels to Alexander Sprunt & Son. Both are unusually large vessels, the Dongola registering 2,826 tons and the Candleshoe, 2,466 tons.

The British steamer Battersea Bridge, Captain Pallelt, cleared yesterday for Liverpool, with a cargo of 12,451 bales of cotton, valued at $617,000; vessel and cargo by Alexander Sprunt & Son.

Attempted To Use Razor.

On the charge of carrying a concealed weapon and drunkenness, Chas. Blackwell, colored, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer D. W. Coleman at Front and Dock streets. Blackwell had an affray with Willie Santee, also colored, and when the officer reached the scene the latter had made his escape and Blackwell had a razor in his hand, with which he had attempted assault upon the other negro. Santee was also arrested later in the evening by Officer D. W. Jacobs and placed in the guard house to await trial in the police court Monday.

RACE EVEN CLOSER

Any One of Three Leading Teams May Yet Capture League Pennant.

PITTSBURG AND CHICAGO

Those Were the "Candy Boys" Yesterday—Giants Drop Another Game. Detroit Cinches American Championship.

National Pennant Race.

	W.	L.	Pct.
Pittsburg	98	55	.640
Chicago	97	55	.638
New York	95	55	.633
Philadelphia	80	70	.533
Cincinnati	72	81	.470
Boston	63	88	.417
Brooklyn	52	98	.346
St. Louis	49	104	.320

So close drawn will be the finish of the race for the pennant in the National League that any one of the three leading teams, Pittsburg, Chicago or New York may win.

The defeat of New York yesterday was costly to that team, for even by winning the three remaining games, New York has to play with Boston, the Pittsburg Club can win the pennant by winning its last game of the season from Chicago today. On the other hand if Chicago defeats Pittsburg and New York wins its remaining games, New York can do no better than tie with Chicago. Thus it is seen that the game between Pittsburg and Chicago today will be the cruicial contest of the entire season, disposing entirely of the chances of one or the other of the two clubs. If Pittsburg loses the game that team will be behind Chicago in the final league standing.

In figuring on the possible outcome of the league race it must be remembered that there is still the famous tie game played by New York with Chicago on September 22nd which is yet to be finally decided upon. The managements of both teams have appealed to the board of directors from President Pulliam's decision.

In the American League pennant race which is also drawing to a close. Detroit has gained a substantial lead and appears to have the championship in its grasp. Cleveland is ten points behind Detroit and Chicago is six points behind Cleveland.

The National League.

St. Louis, Oct. 3.—Pittsburg took a firmer grip on first place in the National League pennant race by defeating St. Louis today in the final game of the league season here. The score was 3 to 2. Wagner's batting and fielding, and a brilliant catch by Abbatticchio of a line drive off Bryne's bat were prominent factors in the result.

Singles by Abbatticchio, Wilson and Maddox, with a sacrifice by Storke sandwiched in, scored only one run for Pittsburg in the second, and St. Louis tied the score in the same inning on Konetchy's single and Ludwig's triple. The visitors jumped into the lead in the next inning when two runs were scored on hits by Clarke, Leach and Wagner. Thereafter only one more tally was counted.

Philadelphia, Oct. 3.—New York lost to Philadelphia this afternoon 3 to 2. Mathewson was hit hard, especially in the fifth inning when they made two runs and took the lead. New York started a rally in the ninth when Herzog reached second on his single and Doolin's muff of the throw in. McCormick scored Herzog and reached third himself when Titus fumbled his single. Donlin gave Osborne a short fly. On Seymour's grounder to Knabe, McCormick was run out, six of the home players taking part in the chase. Devlin struck out, ending the game. Mathewson was taken out in the eighth inning to permit Barry to bat for him. Covaleski, barring the first and ninth innings had New York at his mercy. The New Yorks today appealed from President Pulliam's decision last night as to the Chicago tie game and the Board of Directors meet Monday to decide the contest at Cincinnati.

ROOSEVELT'S DEFEAT.

In one of his recent letters to Roosevelt Bryan said, as our readers remember, "I have lived in vain if your accusations have lost me a single friend." Instead of that Bryan could have said with equal truth that Roosevelt's accusations had won him a great many friends, for we have not the slightest doubt that his candidacy has been strengthened by the attack on him made by Roosevelt in those letters. Every such letter that the Republican President writes can but add to the strength of the opposition nominee. The people know Roosevelt and they know Bryan. Both have been before the public so long that their public and private characters are thoroughly known. Roosevelt is known to be a man of erratic disposition, easily excited and one who brooks no opposition to his will, one whose temper gets away with him when he meets opposition and on such occasions is given to saying things which he does not wish to be "quoted in quotation marks."

Against this hot-headed, impetuous man is pitted the cool, calm, even tempered candidate of the Democratic party, a man who does not get mad in debate, who does not lose his head whenever his adversary says something disagreeable, who is, we suppose, better posted on American politics and the records of the two parties than any other man in the whole country. In a political controversy between these two men, even with the one aided by the men of his cabinet in framing his letters, it was only a question of time when the one of cooler head and more deliberate in temperament would get the best of such a contest. Roosevelt sought the contest and he was the first to announce retirement from it. His party leaders, no doubt, deplored his throwing down the gauntlet to Bryan and were uneasy all the time the contest was on, for they did not know when he would make a break which would give his opponent an opportunity for a coup de grace, which they knew he would be quick enogh to take advantage of. Sure enough the expected has come to pass. Roosevelt has been whipped out in his epistolary contest with the Democratic candidate. This defeat is made doubly humilitating by the fact that the American public, members of his own party as well as Democrats who respected him because of the high office he occupied, looked upon his entering the arena of political strife as the champion of the candidate of his party as a lowering of the dignity of that office, and he began the battle of political letters with public sentiment against him. All these facts assured his defeat, which he has acknowledged in his statement that he would write no more replies to Bryan's letters to him.

ELECTIONS SHOULD BE FAIR.

"Davidson county ought this year to set an example of honest election methods, in view of the fact that the reputation of the county as a vote seller and buyer has heretofore been so notorious. We are confident that the sentiment of our citizens, as a whole, is opposed to this great sin against the suffrage, and good men everywhere ought to set their faces like flint against it. Both parties have again and again pronounced themselves in opposition to the buying and selling of votes, and zealots who stifle their consciences for the sake of winning the election ought to be suppressed."

The above is from the editorial columns of the last issue of Charity and Children. Archibald Johnson, the editor of that paper, is one of the most level-headed, conservative newspaper men in this State. He does not write articles for his paper that he does not mean. He does not get excited and go off half-cocked. In writing for his paper he weighs his words and intends for them to express his deliberate thoughts and well considered ideas. The above paragraph from him means more than it would from some other editors. It can be taken as true that in the county of Davidson there has heretofore been bribery of voters and other election frauds. This is said to the shame of the people of that county and of the entire State. It is a disgrace to the State that such a reputable newspaper should think it necessary to urge that the people of its county in the coming election give up their former custom of buying votes and committing other election frauds. We hope that paper will succeed in suppressing these zealots who stifle their consciences for the sake of winning the election. We judge from this article above quoted that it is a notorious fact that bribery in elections is carried on in that county and by members of both parties. In the last Presidential election the Republicans carried that county by a small majority. Therefore it is natural to suppose that most of the bribery and other illegal action was done by members of that party. But be that as it may, the men of this State of both parties should not countenance such conduct; especially should the members of the Democratic party be above such contemptible conduct. The chief object in adopting the franchise amendment to our State constitution was to free elections from all taint of fraud and improper means of carrying them for the Democratic party. We should live up to that principle and conduct our elections fairly and honestly. If we do not we will lose in the long run.

UNFAIR COMPARISON.

Attorney General Bonapart in his letter in reply to the request from Mr. Daniels for information regarding the prosecution of trusts and trust officials makes a great show with his figures and records as to what has been done by the present and former Republican administrations in this respect in comparison with what was done during the two administrations of President Cleveland. Mr. Bonapart, however fails to give the relative number of such unlawful combinations existing now and when Cleveland was President. The commercial octopus is a creature of the present day. In Cleveland's day there was no such tremendous combination of capital as there is today. The public was not burdened as it is now by these immense monopolistic corporations. They had not become the evil and the menace to the general welfare of the people that they now are. There is no justice, no fairness, no sense in making a comparison in this matter between the action of the present administration with one of near a quarter of a century ago.

We have not heard anything more about Foraker taking the stump as a free lance in the senatorial campaign. No doubt by this time the Senator has recognized that he is politically dead and that there is no use in his trying to resurrect himself on the Brownsville issue or any other one.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—South Carolina may be ignorant, as John Lowndes McLaurin charges, but she exhibited wisdom when she retired the Honorable John L. to private life. And it is a safe proposition that she has learned enough in the past few days to keep him in retirement.—Charlotte News.

—Several days ago the Virginian-Pilot gave several reasons, drawn from the contents of the document itself, for doubting the authenticity of a letter published by the New York Times and credited to the pen of Grover Cleveland. The executor of Mr. Cleveland's literary remains has now come forward with the positive declaration that the letter was a fabrication. Surely no such ghoulish fraud was ever practiced to uphold the sinking fortunes of a political party.

—Between Haskell's chapter every day on the president; the rapid fire guns of the president and Mr. Bryan constantly at work, Gompers and Van Cleave working overtime on the labor question, Taft and Foraker trying to prove to the country that they are not tainted, and Hearst popping away indiscriminately at everything in sight this campaign promises from now on to be warm enough to suit the most abnormal appetite for excitement.—Wilson Times.

—The campaign of 1908 will, in one respect, be instructive. It will show how the voting habit of the people is affected by the absence of large campaign disbursements. It is understood that up to the present time both campaign funds, that in the custody of Mr. Sheldon as well as that recently in the custody of Governor Haskell, are distressingly meagre. Compared with the fat abundance of former Presidential years, there is only a sparse strewing of the bottom of the chest with notes of lean denominations.—New York Times.

—The Telegraph accepted as genuine the alleged Cleveland article which favored Taft, supposing that the executors of the deceased statesman would otherwise not have dared to permit it to be printed, but The Telegraph expressed astonishment at its mysterious and inconsistent character, showed that portions of it were unintelligble, and declared that when the ex-President wrote it he was evidently a very sick man and not at all himself. We are glad that a more simple explanation of the strange document is now put forward, that of forgery.—Macon Telegraph.

—Mr. Thad R. Manning, after twenty-six years of faithful service as editor of the Gold Leaf, offers that paper for sale, and says the game is not worth the candle. But the game is worth the candle, and Mr. Manning has "made good." He is too fine a man and too bright an editor to be overwhelmed by a temporary cloud that has gathered about him. If he sells, somebody will come into possession of a valuable property that has been given character and standing. But we hope he will hear the call to go forward and obey.—Charity and Children.

—Roosevelt wrote Harriman a letter inviting him over to discuss the railroad phase of his message to congress. "We are practical men," quoth Teddy to the railroad king. And "practical man" Harriman proceeded to get up a campaign fund of $260,000 for "practical man" Roosevelt. Haskell is accused of restraining his attorney general from barring a Standard Oil subsidiary concern from laying pipe lines in Oklahoma. "Practical man" Roosevelt's administration had given the Prairie State Oil Company authority to enter Oklahoma. Governor Haskell did nothing more than restrain a company that was working under the authority of the Federal Government.—Charlotte News.

PROOF DEVELOPED IN WILMINGTON

This City Adds To Remarkable Cases Reported in This State.

MAN TELLS OF STRUGGLE

After a Battle of Over Ten Years a Resident of This City is Given Assistance in His Struggle.

There have recently been reported several cases of persons in this State who were relieved of tapeworms of enormous length. The unusual size and other remarkable features in connection with these cases were the cause of much comment and created great interest in Wilmington, and it is a noticeable fact that in each case reported by the press the victim stated that he had been relieved of a tapeworm through the use of Dillingham's Plant Juice. The people of Wilmington have read of the recent cases of John Farris and George Estanteen, both residents of Charlotte, and in both of which cases Plant Juice was the remedy that expelled the parasite, and now this ever ready and dependable foe of these terrible creatures has brought the proof of its wonderful power to the very doors of the citizens of this city by expelling a tapeworm from the system of Sidney Senior, a well known resident of Wilmington, living at 514 McRae St.

This man has contended for his life with this health destroying monster for over ten years and has at last won his battle with the aid of Plant Juice. He has suffered as only a victim of a tapeworm can suffer; he has watched his health disappear and his body waste away under the ravages of the creature that preyed upon his vitals and resisted all efforts to remove it. He states that his life was one of pain and disagreeable stomach troubles since the developement of this worm. The pains were in his stomach, back and chest, and even the region of the heart was affected. He was subject to spells of nausea, dizziness and an appetite that no amount of food could satisfy but a few moments. In the following signed statement he tells of his sufferings and the manner of his relief:

"I have suffered with stomach trouble for over ten years, caused by a tapeworm. During this time my health has been ruined through the indigestion and other disorders that the presence of this worm caused. It seems that I suffered even greater than is usual in such cases. I had pains in my stomach, the small of my back, in my chest and around my heart. There was also a continual feeling of weakness in my back that caused me much trouble. I was subject to dizzy spells; when I would straighten up after stooping, I was blinded for a few moments and felt as though I was about to faint. My appetite was always extremely hearty, although a feeling of nausea generally followed eating. It seems that I could only satisfy my appetite for a few minutes at a time: I have frequently eaten my dinner at my home, on McRae St., and would feel as if I were half starved by the time I reached my work on Sixth St. I could not sleep and was nervous at all times. I have tried in many ways to get rid of this terrible disease, but without success, although I did get a short period of temporary relief about six years ago. I read of the wonderful success of Col. Frank A. Dillingham's Plant Juice remedy in removing tapeworms and when Col. Dillingham came to Wilmington I decided to try this remedy. I began taking Plant Juice and today at noon I passed a tapeworm measuring twenty feet in length and hope to soon regain my former robust state of health.

I am forty-one years of age. I live at 514 McRae St. and am employed in the lumber mill of the Chadbourn Sash, Door & Lumber Co., at Sixth and Campbell streets. Before I became a victim of this tapeworm I weighed 198 pounds and today my weight is 160 pounds.

It's Up to You to be our judge, Geo O. Gaylord's Stores have had their Fall opening, and extended the most liberal invitation to everyone to visit and inspect our stock, we will now leave the decision in your hands Judging from the immense crowds that we had both days of the opening, and the number of pleasant compliments paid us on the wealth of merchandise that we had to show and from the way the ladies purchased their early Fall hats, we must pronounce our opening a great success. We say we are cheaper than other stores, not that we carry less desirable goods in style and quality, but there are many reasons why we can sell for less and one of the chief reasons that in this one store there are many stores, each department representing a store within itself. I wish to extend thanks for all the clerks and milliners in the store and myself for the very large attendance that we had, and now down to business. We want to sell you more good than we have ever sold you, and do it, yes, sure we will do it. Our customers have not been buying so many goods through the Summer, and now the 35,000 people that live in this city, and the 50,000 that live in the County need their Fall and Winter supplies. We have just the articles you want, the goods are new, the prices are right. Our Dress Goods Department has just been newly supplied with Panamas', Mohairs, Broadcloth's, Voiles, Peaudesoi Silks, Taffetas and Fall Percales and everything that is new and pretty in that department. Think! We are selling today 36 inch Henrietta at 25c per yard, today twelve months ago it was 50c, Soisete Silks, glossy and serviceable good enough for a queen and only 25c per yard to you. 54 inch Panama in Black $1.00 quality now 65c. $1.25 Peaudesoi Silks for $1.00 per yard today. Standard yard wide Percales only 10c. Beat these prices? No you can't.

Our Cloak Department, and Tailor made suits has grown so big and strong we can hardly get room for them, just think what we can show you today a beautiful Broadcloth coat, full 50 inches long, made to fit perfect, trimmed enough to be neat, but not loaded with cheap trimmings, last season this coat would easily bring $12.50, today price is $8.00. The Swell coats that we have is some for the few that wants something that nobody else has got, and the kind that is a little better than her neighbors, the only thing that I can describe about them is the price and that is about $25.00 each. Now to the lady that wants a 54 inch coat that looks as good as a neighbors $15.00 coat let her come to us and I will sell it to her for $5.00 or $6.00. The styles, quantity and prices can not be described come and look at them. It does not take much pocket change to buy one, but they are reasonable for all to obtain. Our Tailor Made Suits is the talk of the town, we have won first place in this department from the beginning. If we have not got just the style you want and color you like and size you need why we will order it for you, and all we require is your word that you will take it when it comes. I can't tell it all, every clerk in the store sent a special message for you to come and see them. You know the place, of course you do, The Big Store on Front Street that gives away premiums every day, if you have not got it, get the habit and come early before the plumes are all gone.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

The Original Remedy That Kills the Dandruff Germ.

"Travelling as I do continuously, I have been troubled a great deal with dandruff and falling hair, and until I tried Herpicide I never found a remedy that was satisfactory.

Herpicide is a delightful preparation that fulfills the claims made for it, and no lady's toilet is complete without it. I highly recommend it to my friends."

(Signed) ANNIE OAKLEY.

It is certainly significant that Miss Oakley, the celebrated rifle shot and theatrical star, who has travelled so extensively abroad, should choose Newbro's Herpicide as the most efficacious toilet remedy for the scalp. No one will doubt her opportunity to choose the best and those who have seen the natty and winsome Miss Oakley, will not doubt her power of discrimination in matters of this sort.

Newbro's Herpicide is a scientific germicide and prophylatic for the hair and scalp, it destroys the germ or microbe that causes dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair, after which the hair will grow as nature intended, except in cases of incurable baldness. Extraordinary results sometimes follow the continued use of Newbro's Herpicide.

If your hair is dull, brittle or lustreless, don't wait until it begins to fall, but save and beautify it with Newbro's Herpicide. In addition to it's wonderful medicinal qualities, Newbro's Herpicide is the daintest and most delightfully refreshing hair dressing available. The first application proves its goodness. Try it.

Herpicide contains no grease, it will not stain or dye,

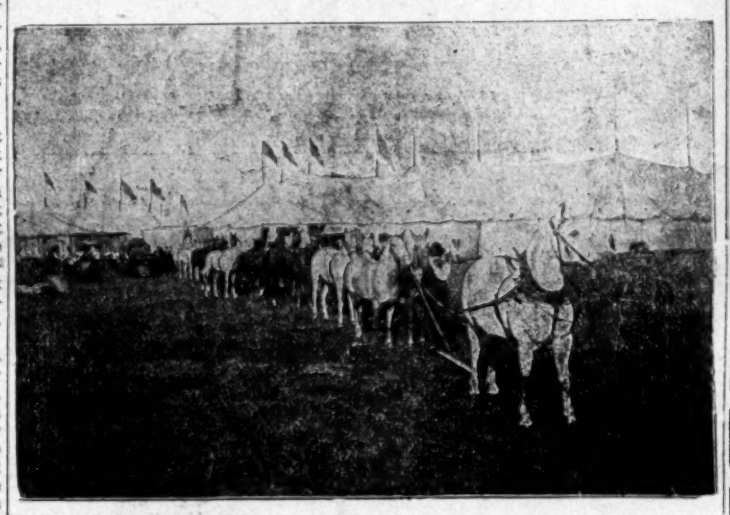
COLE BROTHERS' BIG SHOWS.



Early Morning Scene With Cole Brothers' Shows.

Shortly after midnight this morning, the first train of Cole Brothers' World Toured Shows arrived in Wilmington, and as soon as the cars had been sided, the work of unloading was commenced. This train is known as the "Pilot Brigade" and the cars carry the horse tents, cooking equipment and entire culinary department. This is packed as soon after the evening meal as is possible, and the first wagons to the train carry this paraphernalia. It is the first thing erected so that breakfast is ready when the two remaining show trains arrive in the city.

Today being Sunday but little work will be done. A dressing room tent, the menagerie canvas and possibly another tent will be spread to house the employes, but beyond this work the Sabbath will be spent in rest and quiet recreation. Sunday is an especially good day for the public to visit the show grounds, for many a glimpse behind the scenes in other days unobtainable, may be had on the first day of the week. A portion of the menagerie receives its bi-weekly scrubbing and interest centers in the menagerie canvas during this interesting operation. The great ank is treated to a shampoo and marcel wave, the camel receives a dry wash, the bears are scoured, and the elephants enjoy their bath at the water plug. Allow these big fellows to take a swim in a stream and trouble is brewing immediately. They love the water, and their keepers would be required to spend hours in getting them ashore. When a herd of pachyderms arrive at a bridge that will not sustain their great weight, the structure is strengthened rather than allow the elephants to ford the stream.

Tomorrow morning the street parade of Cole Brothers' shows will be a feature of circus day. The trust organization do not countenance parades, but Messrs. Cole have never given up the procession, and this show is the biggest aggregation offering a street pageant. Immediately after the parade a series of free exhibitions will be given at Hilton Park. This event will serve to introduce Mlle D'Zizzi who will "span death's arch" on her bicycle. She is the only woman in the world accomplishing this feat, and her dare-devil feat is out of the ordinary for a free attraction. The free programe will be repeated at 6:30 o'clock in the evening, just before the doors to the evening performance open.

The afternoon performance commences at 2 o'clock, but the doors are open one hour earlier. This will afford early comers an opportunity to inspect the menagerie, and a band concert by Professor Tinney and his band of forty soloists will also be offered. A clown overture, termed "The Clowns' Congress," will also be introduced, which, together with the band concert will serve to amuse until the big show opens. The clowns for the free performance novelty have a repertoire of phayhits and absurd antics that never fail to please. Directly after the afternoon concert the animals in the menagerie are fed, and thereforeit is advisable for ladies and children to attend the matinee than the evening show, for the programme is better suited for their amusement.

After the free exhibit in the evening the doors to the big show are opened, the menagerie is ready for inspection and the band concert and "Clowns' Congress" is offered for the early comers. The performance itself commences at 8 o'clock, and not one number is "cut" or shortened. This is one of Messrs. Coles' positive guarantees. Cole Brothers' horse fair is not to be overlooked and 300 animals are on exhibition during the morning and afternoon. Authorities have praised this collection of horseflesh, and the animals are all in the pink of condition. The performance has been praised in all the large cities of the South, and Richmond and Norfolk stamped it as the biggest and best that these two cities have seen in many a day.

For the Wilmington engagement a down-town ticket office has been opened at Plummer's store where admission and reserved seat coupons will be sold at the same prices as at the ticket wagon on the grounds.

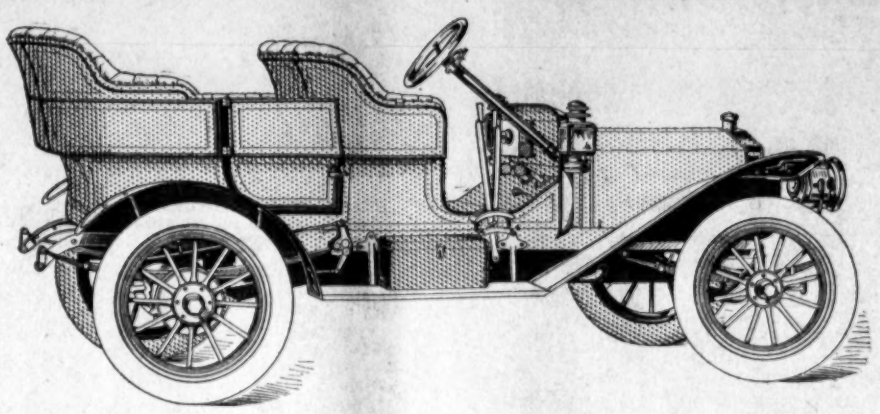
$11,000,000.00 Worth of Experience Behind This $1500 Car

Don't Pay this Price and Get a Lesser Car.

Ready for Delivery Now.



A Machine---Not a Toy.

Ready for Delivery Now.

In the last eight years, eleven million dollars worth of cars have been made and sold by the Mitchell Motor Car Company, at the average price of $1,500 each.

The Mitchell people were the pioneers of the low priced, high quality car. Their first car was a good one—every succeeding model has been better. And now, Eleven Million Dollars worth of experience, the knowledge of eight successful years, is crystalized in this car offered at$1,500.

It is a five-passenger, four-cylinder, 30-horse power car. Big, strong, handsome, powerful, speedy and easily controlled.

It is equipped with a $150 Splitdorf Magneto. No dry cells to purchase every two weeks—no storage battery to have "re-charged" once amonth, makes its own current as it is needed, and requires little or no care. This will save $50 per year in cost of operation—but there is no extra charge in first cost to you.

Thirty-two inch wheels, with four inch tires. Large enough to do the work, and last.

There is not an experiment in this car. Everything in it, from its power plant to its steering mechanism, has been tested, tried and proven in actual daily use.

YOU KNOW WHAT THIS CAR WILL DO BY THE RECORD OF ITS PAST. Judge it not by what we say, but by what, for eight years, earlier models have done. Judge it by what earlier models have done right here.

WHAT KIND OF A CAR DO YOU WANT? One that is tried and proven, or something new, just on the market, untried, unknown, even to its builders, and necessarily uncertain as to its performance. "The proof of the pudding" is not in the receipt, nor is the proof of a car in its advertisement.

THIS CAR IS THE RESULT OF EIGHT YEARS' EXPERIENCE, based on the expenditure of Eleven Million Dollars in manufacturing just these cars. It is not in the "receipt" stage, but is a finished, tested, tried and proven product. THESE CARS WERE THE ORIGINAL HIGH QUALITY, MEDIUM PRICED CARS. They are built by people who know how, from past experience.

DO YOU WANT TO FURNISH THE EXPEIRENCE, and the wherewithal to pay for it, for those manufacturers, who, noting the success that has attended these cars, are now following in the path blazed and established by the MITCHELL, or do you want the proven product, the car that is KNOWN?

BEFORE YOU BUY ANY CAR, EXAMINE IT CAREFULLY. What about the tires? You need a 32-inch wheel for comfort, and you need a 4-inch tire for safety and economy. A smaller tire won't last—it won't stand the strain. Don't be persuaded that it will. Be on the safe side, and insist on having at least 32x4 tires on the car you buy.

WHAT ABOUT THE ENGINE YOU ARE GOING TO HAVE IN YOUR CAR? You want four cylinders, of course. Do you want them cast separately, so that you will be assured of uniform radiation, uniform cooling and no undue stresses due to unequal heating of different portions of the walls, or do you want them cast in one piece—all four of them—so that if one needs replacing, you must buy four? Think about this and look at the cylinders of the car you are considering.

HAVE AN EYE TO THE CRANK SHAFT. Remember it transmits all of the power of the engine that is used in driving the car. To be safe, it should have sufficient bearings to give it absolute rigidity. With scanty bearings it may—and probably will—break under heavy strains, just when you need it most—and when a crank shaft breaks you may count on having it tear up pretty much all of the engine that it can reach. Two bearings are not enough, don't be persuaded they are. Our experience has demonstrated that FIVE ARE NECESSARY. Take it from us, and don't accept an engine with less than five bearings.

THIS is the new $1,500 car which goes all the other $1,500 cars at least $300 better. Not in theoretical advantages, but in actual automobile value that you can see with your eyes and feel with your fingers. And, unlike other $1,500 cars, this new Mitchell has not one single experiment about it. It has been tried, tested and proven through eight years of grueling experience. A perfect, powerful, reliable five-passenger car.

New York, Oct. 3.—Earnings of the Pennsylvania system lines directly operated, show a net decrease of $1,102,000; from January 1 to August 31, a net decrease of $5,618,500.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 30.—The strike of Canadian Pacific Railroad mechanics, which started August 4th, was declared off early today. The strike involved 20,000 men. The terms of settlement have not yet been announced. It was decided to declare the strike off in the West first. This be followed by a similar declaration in the East.

Altus, Okla, Oct. 3.—Sheriff Hensley, of Jackson county, yesterday attached a St. Louis and San Francisco freight engine, chaining it to the track here in an attempt to force the payment of $2,280 in taxes said to be due the county from the railroad. The train crew was forced to abandon their train, and both the railroad and the county are threatening suits.

Baltimore, Oct. 1.—No provision was made for the payment of the semi-annual interest due today on the general mortgage 4 per cent bonds of the Seaboard Air Line railway, of which the Continental Trust Company, of Baltimore, is the trustee. Default was made also on the April 1st coupons, but according to the terms of mortage the company was allowed the usual six months before being in permanent default on this issue. So far as can be learned no call for the deposit of the bonds has been made either by the reorganization committee or the protective committee, organized in the interest of the holders of this class of bonds.

New York, Oct. 1.—Manufacturers of railroad equipment and of material, representing, it is said, $500,000,000 capital and 1,000 separate concerns, have organized the Railway Business Association which will combat attacks made upon railroads. George A. Post, president of the Standard coupler Company, was chosen president yesterday at a meeting which was held at the Waldorf Hotel. In speaking of the organization today Mr. Post said: "In the last year many of our concerns have suffered a falling off in trade of 75 per cent. The reason why we have done so badly has been because the railroads have lacked the ability to purchase supplies, and much of these inabilities have been caused by the attitude of hostility toward them which the public has assumed. We feel that something should be done to offset this feeling and that is the whole reason of our assembling here today. We want it plainly understood that we are not a partisan body and it is not our business to elect or defeat anybody. We are not forming any trade agreement among ourselves. After all the men gathered here today produce more tonnage and buy more tickets in one year than the politicians screaming against the railroads do in half a century."

Colonel Dan C. Kingman, United States Corps of Engineers at Savannah has called a meeting of the special board of which he is president and which was appointed to confer about conditions on the Appomattox river. The meeting is to be held at Petersburg, Va., October 8. Major Kuhn, engineer in charge of the Norfolk district, and Colonel Burr, engineer in charge of the Boston district, are the other members of the board. The chief engineers of the Norfolk and Western Railway and the Atlantic Coast Line will also be present. The conference will turn upon the government improvements being made in the river and others that may be considered advisable.

Orangeburg (S. C.) News: "Ever since the flood two or three weeks back, the Atlantic Coast Line trestle at the Santee was washed away, and as soon as the water was sufficiently low, and a force of hands and machinery could be gotten to the place, work was commenced to rebuild the tracks. This work has been going on without a hitch, all the time for the past several weeks, and it is rapidly nearing completion. It was stated last night that the work was nearly finished, and that it was expected that trains would be operated between Florence and Augusta by the last of the present week. It is hoped that this will be done, as it is of considerable importance to this city that the trestle befinished as soon as possible so that trains can be operated."

The new Clyde liner Mohawk, which was launched at the Cramp's yard at Philadelphia on July 28, is expected to go into commission on the New York-Charleston-Jacksonville line during the present month. The Mohawk is the largest and finest steamer ever built for the Clyde line, and is one of the largest vessels constructed for coastwise traffic along the Atlantic coast of the United States. She is of 5,000 tons register, 400 feet length and 48 feet breadth, with an estimated sea speed of fourteen knots. Accommodations have been provided for 275 cabin passengers and sixty steerage passengers. The saloons and state rooms are all located on the upper decks, are of exceptionally large dimensions, finely lighted by large windows, and perfectly ventilated. Although no official announcement to the effect has as yet been made, yet it is generally thought that Capt. Kemble, of the Arapahoe, will command the new ship. In point of service Capt, Kemble is the oldest ship master in the Clyde line service. This will leave the Arapahoe without a commander, and it is rumored that Capt. I. K. Chichester of the Iroquois, another of the old and efficient masters, will go to the Arapahoe. It is also understood that Capt. W. O. Chichester, a nephew of Capt. I. K. Chichester, and who, although a comparatively young man, is one of the ablest mariners on the Atlantic coast, will succeed to the command of the Iroquois. Capt. W. O. Chichester is at present the master of one of the freight liners.

"What does it cost to put an ad. in the paper?"

"You want to go easy on that. I'm a friend of your boss."

"Who writes the items for you after you bring them in?"

"If I was you I'd be going to the show every night."

"To decide a bet how many rounds did John L. Sullivan and James Corbett fight?"

"Put in that I've gone to New York. I ain't going, but I want a certain girl to see it."

"Get me a pass to the ball game, will you?"

"I wish you would put a joke in the paper on a fellow I know."

"I know how it is—you want to spread this story a whole lot so you'll fill up space.

"Don't you have to vote the way your editor does?"

"If you print anything about it I'll quit taking your sheet."

FAST OF YOM KIPPUR.

Solemn Festival Will be Observed by Jewish People Everywhere.

The festival of Yom Kippur, the most solemn festival of the Jewish calendar, will begin this afternoon at the synagogue and it will be strictly observed by the Jewish people of Wilmington.

Yom Kippur is the day, according to rabbinical allegory, upon which God commands the recording angel to close the books of each one's sins and merits, which had been opened on Rosh Hoshannah, or New Year. Rosh Hoshannah, which with the Jews is a day of remembrance, the occasion for meditation upon one's sins, when the soul arouses itself, considers its past and reflects upon its deserts and prepares for the coming year, was observed by the Jewish community last Friday and Saturday, from Sundown to sundown.

The days between Rosh Hoshannah and Yom Kippur are known as the awful days, or the ten days of penitence, each of which is observed as a half fast day by the more orthodox Jews, while Yom Kippur itself is invariably observed as a complete fast.

Ten days after Rosh Hoshannah comes Yom Kippur, or Fast day. This day among the Jews is a day of fasting and "affliction of the soul." Faithful Jews, the world over, do not partake of any food or drink from sunset to sunset, this occasion being more generally observed than the Jewish holiday.

Yom Kippur falls this year on Monday, October 5, and from sunset, October 4, to sunset, the following day, fasting will be religiously observed.

It is with great interest that Wilmington people are watching the playground movement and it is believed that in the near future the city will be able to boast of as fine playgrounds for the children as can be found in any place of its size in the country. For the past two years, the playground question has been mooted, and through the persistent efforts of a few citizens, the interest of the community has at last been aroused, until now, it seems to be only a matter of a very short time before Wilmington will be amply provided with these much needed playgrounds. The series of entertainments which will be given at the Academy for the benefit of this great cause, will be opened on October 7th, when Victor's Italian Band will appear, as has been previously announced, and with the week beginning November 2nd, the Elksfest will occupy the minds of all, who will do all in their power to co-operate with this organization in its efforts to help this worthy cause. Most elaborate preparations are being made to make this Elkfest a great success, and large crowds will doubtless participate in the joys that are being prepared for them.

There is more health for the digestive organs in a bottle of Electric Bitters than in any other remedy I know of." Sold under guarantee at R. R. Bellamy's drug store. 50c.

Family Secrets.

A father complains that his little six-year-old girl is too talkative. He says: The worst of it is when we have visitors she is continually making mistakes of the worst sort, mistakes that tend to rattle the dry bones of the family skeleton in the cupboard. Recently she allowed her tongue to run away with her, as usual, the result of which was that she very much embarrassed both her father and mother, although the guests seemed delighted.

I had a very serious talk with her and impressed upon her, or tried to, that she must not tell any family secret. The next time we had company she was permitted to come to the table only by promising that she wouldn't utter a word.

She behaved beautifully and had nothing to say until the dessert was about to be taken away. Then her lips began to quiver, and finally she burst into tears.

"Why, what's the matter, darling?" her mother asked.

"I—I want some more ice cream, if that isn't a family secret," she wailed between sobs.—London Telegraph.

An Unexpected Burns Lecture.

John Augustus O'Shea used to be in considerable request as a lecturer on his military experiences. Once, at Dumfries, he came upon the platform wearing in his buttonhole a daisy, which he quietly removed and held up.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he began, "I hold in my hand a 'wee modest flower' I plucked this evening from the grave of Robert Burns." The audience was interested and became inthralled as the lecturer went on to speak of the national poet. Then, suddenly recollecting that Burns had nothing to do with his subject, he stopped abruptly. "And now," said Mr. O'Shea, "I will proceed to relate my experiences in the war."

But by this time he had thoroughly engaged the sympathies of his listeners, who would not hear of another subject. "Never min' the war, sir," they vociferated; "gie us Robbie Burns!" And he did. This extempore oration afterward became one of the most popular of Mr. O'Shea's lectures. —London Chronicle.

Lord Penzance's Acquaintance.

When the late Lord Penzance was plain Mr. Wilde, he once took an early morning stroll round Covent Garden market. There he entered into conversation with an old man of genial aspect who had just made a purchase of a geranium. Mr. Wilde soon found that the stranger was an enthusiastic amateur gardener, and the pair had an interesting chat on horticultural topics as they walked toward Oxford street. Suddenly the fare in a passing hansom cab signaled to the driver to pull up, and within the vehicle Wilde saw his friend, Sergeant Ballantine. Bidding the old man adieu, Wilde entered the cab.

In surprised accents Ballantine exclaimed, "How on earth did you come to know that man?"

"Picked him up just now in Covent Garden market," said his companion.

"Well, Wilde," the sergeant remarked, "your new acquaintance is Calcraft, the hangman!"

Kodol

For Dyspepsia and Indigestion

If you suffer from Indigestion or Dyspepsia; if you are annoyed with gas on the stomach, fulness after eating, belching, sour stomach, heartburn, etc., a few doses of Kodol will relieve you.

If you knew as well as we do how good a preparation Kodol is for indigestion and dyspepsia, it would be unnecessary for us to guarantee a single bottle.

But to get you to know how good it is as well as we know, we practically will purchase the first bottle for you.

You wonder, perhaps, how we can afford to make such an offer—It is because we have absolute confidence in the honesty and fairness of the public.

We know there are thousands of persons who suffer from indigestion and dyspepsia, who would be grateful to us for putting them in touch with Kodol.

That is why.

Furthermore, we know that after you have used Kodol your faith in the preparation will be equal to ours.

This proposition we make is not altogether unselfish, but it is actuated by the knowledge that the use of Kodol by you will benefit you as well as ourselves.

How could we afford to make such an offer to the public, and how could we afford to spend thousands of dollars to tell you about it unless we positively knew and were sure of the merits of Kodol?

We couldn't—it would bankrupt us.

But we know the merits of Kodol and we want you to know.

Use Kodol as directed and it cannot fail to help you.

A small dose is effective and quickly, because Kodol is liquid.

Nature administers her perfect digester in liquid form.

And that is why Kodol is liquid.

The point we make is this:

Kodol is a scientific combination of elements, the loss of which is the cause of indigestion. Kodol makes up the loss.

Please try it to-day at our risk.

It means more than relief. It means that the stomach will do its own work far sooner than you'll expect.

Kodol digests all the food you eat.
Eat what you want and let Kodol digest it.
You don't have to take Kodol all the time.
You take it only when you need it.

Our Guarantee

Get a dollar bottle of Kodol, and do it today. Don't delay. And if you can honestly say that you did not receive any benefits from it after you have used the entire bottle, the druggist will refund your money to you without question or delay. We will pay the druggist the price of the bottle purchased by you.

Don't hesitate.

Any druggist will give you Kodol on these terms, because he knows our guarantee is good.

The $1.00 bottle contains 2½ times as much as the 50c bottle.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

AGREED TO DISAGREE

Republican Convention in Cumberland Yesterday Resulted in a Fiasco.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Fayetteville, N. C., Oct. 3.—The Republican county convention met here today. It was a fiasco. Nobody agreed and everybody agreed to disagree. It is written between the lines that a certain anti-Prohibitionist, anti-Democrat, anti-Republican anti- Populist was fixing up the ticket ,which will be agreed on later. We have it from headquarters that the ticket will be announced on Saturday, October 10th. At one time during the proceedings so many motions and substitutes were put that on the question being called for, the chairman declared: "Upon my word, I don't know what the question is."

Registration Open Yesterday.

As required by law the registrars for the general election Nov. 3rd, were at their respective polling places yesterday for the purpose of recording any names not already on the books. The registrars are required to be at the polling places only on Saturday but voters may be registered wherever the registrar may be found on other ways during the 20 days that the books are open. All voters should see to it at once that their names are on the books.

VERDICT NOT GUILSY

the verdict of the jury.

James Sidbury, the negro who figured in the East Wilmington shooting with Geo. Simpson some time ago, was let off with the costs in consideration of his having been wounded in the stomach.

Ed Coleman was called and failed and judgment absolute was entered.

The court expired by limitation last midnight after a hard week's work on the part of Judge Lyon and Solicitor Duffy. There were more than 145 cases on the docket and a very large majority of them have been disposed of, leaving practically no prisoners in the jail.

The Civil Term This Week.

The two weeks civil term of the Superior Court will convene tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, Judge Lyon prsiding. The first case on the docket is one of the most important of the term, that of Gaston D. Phares & Co., against the Clarendon Waterworks Co., in which the plaintiff is suing for the recovery of goods lost in a recent fire for which it is alleged the water company furnished inadequate pressure. Messrs. Meares & Ruark appear for the plaintiffs and Messrs. Davis & Davis, Bellamy & Bellamy, Herbert McClammy and John D. Bellamy & Son for the water company. It is expected that at least two or three days will be required for the trial of this case.

The jurors summoned for appearance Monday are as follows: Geo. R. French, Martin Rathjen, E. B. Pleasants, E. M. Cheek, W. S. Register, Percy Canady, W. W. Wright M. A. Lockamy, D. C. Marshall, J. H. Hobbs, J. M. Wiggins, Hiram M. Millinor, W. T. Mercer, E. T. Howell, C. H. Walsh, W. L. Jones, Haywood Clark, R. H. Pickett.

The Theatre

Henry W. Savage's version of "The Devil" which was made by arrangement with Franz Molnar, the Hungarian playwright, retains in a remarkable degree, the wonderfully effective light and shade of the original.

Although the play tells an intensely interesting dramatic story, it is inherently a comedy—often, it must be admitted, a cynical, pungent sarcastic comedy—but the flashes of wit, the keen satire, the knowledge of human nature which the "Devil," in the guise of Dr. Miller, has at the tip of his tongue, keep the audience intermittently bubbling over with laughter. It is this scintillating comedy that brings out the dramatic interest of the play. It is the Savage version of this marvellous dramatic creation which is to be presented here at the Academy of Music Friday evening by permission of Mr. Savage and which will be given with a company of equal merit and with a scenic investiture that duplicates that now running at the Garden Theatre, New York to crowds that nightly tax the capacity of the great play house.

Royal Venetian Band.

Victor and His Royal Venetian Band, which will be the atraction at the Academy of Music on Wednesday night, will undoubtedly be one of the leading musical events of the season and the famous organization of musicians will probably be greeted by a packed house. The Nashville Tennesseean of recent date, among other things says:

"Victor and his Royal Venetian Band were given an enthusiastic reception at the Ryman Auditorium last night. The house was literally packed, more than 3,000 people being present. Of the admirable programme of classical and popular music which was presented, notable were the vocal solos by Mme. Grace Key-Miller. The demonstrations which her efforts evoked were tremendous.

Victor is less than ostentatious but a man of decidedly more pleasing personality than Creatore, who, with his band, has appeared at the auditorium more than once during the past year. Victor works earnestly, but does not indulge in grimaces. His band, however, is admirably trained and responds to his direction with sympathy and intelligence."

Seats will go on public sale at Plummer's Tuesday morning.

At The Crystal.

All new faces again this week at the Crystal Palace and the change will bring to the fore what is claimed will be one of the best vaudeville bills yet offered Wilmington amusement lovers. There will be plenty of fun and plenty of novelty. In fact, the variety will be swell, as the bill will not only include comedy sketch work, singing and dancing, but refined, up-to-date musical act and "stunts" by two of the cleverest youngsters behind the footlights. The "kids" will be Percival and Shields, who have been creating furore on the vaudeville circuits and they will, no doubt, prove exceedingly popular at the Palace. Others on the bill will be the Great Grey, in a brilliant musical act; Earle Higley, the well known blackface comedian; and Farris and Delue, up-to-date sketch artists and who will be seen in some bright new acts.

It will be of interest to amusement lover to learn that the Palace has secured as its musical director Mr. Frank Crommie, who is well remembered here in a similar capacity with the Majestic. He will arrive today from New York city.

A. & M. and Wake Forest.

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 3.—A free for all fight of five minutes duration characterized the fooball game of Wake Forest and the A. and M. College teams at Wake Forest this afternoon. No one seems to know just how the row started. The Wake Forest men accused the A. and M. players of trying to injure their players. There were counter charges by the A. and M. and a fight began between the players. Then the rooters rushed in pell-mell and the fight was general. No one was injured aside from slight bruises. The local policeman's revolver was snatched away from him when the attempted to restore order and he never recovered it. The game resulted 25 to 0 in favor of A. and M., the Farmers outclassing the Ministers both in weight of men and in training. However, Wake Forest put up a plucky game, the college never having had a football team out before. A. and M. made five touch-downs but kicked no goal.

Two Small Fires Yesterday.

The fire department responded to two alarms yesterday. One from box 35 at 12:36 P. The damage was about $75, fully covered by insurance with Colonel Walker Taylor. The second alarm at 4 P. M. from box 19 was on account of a trifling damage to 718 MacRae street, owned by Eliza Hankins and occupied by Dora Herring, both colored.

FUND FOR PROSECUTION

Democratic National Committee Has Appropriated $5,000 To Protect the Interests of the Party During Campaign.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, Oct. 3.—Norman E. Mack, chairman of the Democratic National Committee said today before having for West that a special fund of $5,000 had been appropriated and set aside for the purpose of punishing any persons or corporations which endeavors to coerce employes in the National election. Special counsel will be retained, Mr. Mack said to conduct prosecutions. Mr. Mack explained that numerous complaints had been received by the National committee from employees throughout the country that they had been threatened with dismissal if they persisted in support of the Democratic ticket. Mr. Mack continued: "This is attempt at bribery and is punishable as such. Threats of dismissal or to reduce wages of employees if they vote for Bryan or promises of higher wages if they vote for Mr. Taft is plain bribery. We are not afraid of the effect of such tactics in this election because the American laboring man cannot be bribed nor scared into submission to the will of his master in a matter as sacred as the ballot, but I think it is the duty of this committee to protect the American working man from such methods.

"It is not advisable at the present time to give the names of these employees. That would be an injustice to them. But the names of every guilty employer will be published and full publicity given to his case both before and after election. The slip in the pay envelope a few days before election advising how to vote will not be permitted this year as in former campaigns."

Officers were elected as follows: President, William Gregerson; vice president, Adrian VanLeeuwen; secretary and treasurer, F. W. Holden, of Wilmington. The Association starts out under the brightest auspices and promises to be of incalculable benefit to the growers in its membership.

COMMERCIAL CONGRESS

President Roosevelt Designates General Luke Wright as the Government's Representative—Meets in Washington.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Washington, D. C., October 3.—President Roosevelt, will designate General Luke E. Wright, Secretary of War, as the Government's official representative at the Southern Commercial Congress which will convene in this city December 7 and 8, just prior to the National Rivers and Harbors Congress.

A committee of Southern business men, comprising G. Grosvenor, of Alabama, John A. Betjeman, of Georgia, and Edwin L. Quarles, of Virginia, called at the White House this afternoon to explain to the President the general scope and purpose of the Congress. The President told the visitors he was interested in the objects of the Congress, which he regarded as a forerunner of the commercial and industrial advance which the opening of the Panama canal will bring to the South.

One of the principal addresses will be made by Secretary Wright on "The influence of the Panama Canal on the Industrial Development of the Nation."

"The President grasped at once the full significance of what we propose to do," said Mr. Betjam. "He was most enthusiastic in offering to do all in his power to make the work of our Congress a success. At this great meeting we desire to get before the world the fact that the South has extraordinary resources in water power, climate agriculture, minerals and raw materials of manufacture. Economic forces are at work compelling the shortest possible line between raw material and factory."

Welcome the Football Contingent.

Arrangements are under way to make the appearance of the Davidson and University football teams here on the 17th for their annual game quite a notable affair in the college life of the city. At an informal meeting of a number of the collegians last night, it was tentaively agreed to give a dance in honor of the teams the night of their stay in the city with probably an oyster roast in connection therewith. Mr. S. A. Schloss is also arranging to bring to the Academy of Music for that occasion the big opera "The Runaways". Plans are expected to materialize this week for an altogether delightful reception to the college men.

The prisoners were Will White, five years for burglary; Ben Swain, six months for larceny, and Boston Jenrette, six months for fornication and adultery.

Beginning October 1st, and continuing for one month, the Wilmington Public Library is being kept open evenings as an experiment by the trustees. A separate librarian is in charge and many people who have heretofore not been able to make advantages of the library, especially the working classes, are now able to do so. It is to be hoped that the experiment can be continued.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE

—C. A. Capps is appointed postmaster at Folkstone, Onslow county, vice M. E. Capps.

—Winston Sentinel: To the Public: Hon. John W. Kern, candidate for Vice President of the United States, will make a short address at the court house in Winston-Salem upon the arrival of the train from Greensboro on the morning of October 7th.

—Greenville Reflector: This is circus day, and a holiday. From the time the date was set and the gorgeous pictures got on the bill boards and the red-lettered banners on the poles, people have been talking of the coming of Cole Brothers' big show. The day has come, and with it the circus, and likewise the people.

—Rocky Mount Record: At Spring Hope on Monday morning, October 5 at Stallings warehouse Hon. J. W. Bailey and Hon. B. F. Aycock are booked to speak shortly after the arrival of the morning train. This speaking is secured by the Democratic executive committee of the county and a welcome is extended to all to come out and hear the issues of the day discussed.

—Duplin Journal: Major George E. Butler, of Clinton, and Mr. Hampton Williams, of Kenansville, have an appointment for a joint discussion of the political issues of the day in Warsaw, Thursday, October 8th. We have not been informed as to the hour of speaking but suppose it will be in the evening. We have no doubt but that these gentlemen will draw a good crowd.

—Charlotte News: There will be a meeting of the board of aldermen tomorrow night to receive the report of the committee having in hand the compromise with the drug stores on the matter of the sale of whiskey on prescriptions. The committee which is composed of Aldermen Chambers, Kirkpatrick and Shoemaker has not reached a final agreement, but it is thought that the report will be ready by tomorrow.

—New York, Oct. 2.—Following an attack of National Chairman Mack today on the corporation affiliations of George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the Republican National committee, it was learned tonight that the Democratic National committee, is preparing to assail the corporation connections of William Nelson Cromwell, member of the Advisory committee of the Republican National committee.

—Newbern Journal: The Journal has received a letter from a farmer living on Swift Creek near the Pitt county line, referring to a paragraph which appeared in the Journal a few days ago telling about what bad condition farmers who live along the water course were left in by the big freshets. The writer says the situation is indeed not only deplorable but alarming. He says that of a three horse crop, which he tended this year, the loss is almost complete.

—Concord, N. C., Oct. 2.—Congressman R. N. Hackett came to this county yesterday for a three days' speaking engagement, making 6 speeches to Cabarrus voters. Upon reaching here Mr. Hackett was greeted by many friends among these the correspondent of the News and Observer, to whom he spoke of the treatment he was given at Wilkesboro on last Monday, when he accepted a challenge of his opponent, Mr. Cowles, to meet him in joint debate.

—Charlotte News: More information concerning the fire at Plumtree, Mitchell county, N. C., which destroyed a dormitory of the Presbyterian school there, comes in letters from some of the Charlotte boys there. Mrs. Hall was the first to discover the fire and startled a debate that was in progress with the announcement. Nothing was saved in the third floor. Some of the boys saved belongings but the majority lost all. The boys are living in tents and saying lessons without books. There is a new dormitory nearly finished and this will be used until the old one can be rebuilt. One boy writes home to his father: "Mr. Hall took it all quietly and said it was God's will and I suppose it is."

—New York, Oct. 2.—When it was reported here today that Secretary of State Elihu Root had visited Republican national headquarters last Wednesday and made inquiries regarding the work of the various committees under the national committee, a flutter of excitement was caused in the political circles. The report went out that Secretary Root had been sent by the President because he was not satisfied with the manner in which the campaign was being conducted. Secretary Root was credited with having returned to Washington and expressed the conclusion that National Treasurer Sheldon was to blame for the lagging in the campaign, he having left to Chairman Hitchcock much of the business that should have been disposed of by the treasurer's department.

519 CRAWFORD STREET :-: PORTSMOUTH, VIRGINIA

—Statesville, N. C., Oct. 2.—Governor Glenn, who spoke here today, was shown a reported account of Chas. H. Cowles' speech at Wilkesboro, in which he charged: First. "That he had introduced a resolution in the Legislature demanding that the Governor send to that body all papers and correspondence between him and the railroad authorities and that resolution was not acted upon and no report was made in regard to what passed between the Governor and the railroads." Second. "That the seventeen thousand five hundred dollars was a bribe to the Legislature and the Governor to pass a compromise bill at the special session." Speaking of the first statement of Mr. Cowles the Governor said that he heard that a member of the Legislature, though he did not remember whether it was Mr. Cowles or Mr. Grant, of Davie, had introduced a resolution to the effect that they desired the correspondence between the Governor and the railroads and that the next day he sent to the Legislature a special message in which he stated that this was a part of the records of his office, but they were free to be examined by any member of the Senate or House, and that any and all parties could and would be furnished with a copy of any letter or paper that they desired to see. These letters are all filed in the office now and are open to the inspection of any one. No member and no Republican asked to see these letters or requested a copy of them, but all knew they could see them whenever they wished.

It Tastes Good and Creates Strength

the famous cod liver and iron medicine, without oil. Vinol is much better than cod liver oil and emulsions, because, while it contains all the medicinal value they do, it disagrees with no one. As a body builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children, after sickness, and for stubborn coughs and colds Vinol is unequaled.

Little Watts

By Frank H. Sweet.

Copyright, 1907, by Frank H. Sweet.

NO matter how cold or stormy it was Little Watts was always waiting for his papers in front of the Daily Leader office at half past 4 in the morning. It was often stormy and always cold at that hour in the thriving and populous Rocky mountain mining town in which the Leader was published, and Little Watts lived a mile from the office in a poor wooden house near one of the great mines.

I met him one morning hurrying down the stony, deserted, unlighted street. The wind was blowing keen and cold, the air was filled with fine, sleety snowflakes, and I thought when I saw Little Watts that the fates had not been kind to the boy or he would have been warm and snug in bed at home at that hour.

But the Leader was published every morning, and Little Watts had regular customers at whose doors he left his papers before he hurried away to the early morning trains.

He was only twelve years old and small for his years, and he would never be much larger or stronger. A great hump between his narrow shoulders told a sorrowful story of a fall down a long flight of tenement house stairs when he was only two years old.

It was often my duty to count out to the boys the papers as they came from the press. That is how I happened to know Little Watts.

His name was Clarence, but I never heard him called by any other name than Little Watts.

I remember when I saw the boy and heard his name for the first time. It was the first morning I gave the papers out to the boys. The Leader that morning contained one of the matters of important news that always increase the demand for the papers, and the moment the office door was opened the newsboys came pushing and scrambling in, each eager to be first.

Suddenly the largest of the boys, a low browed, thick lipped, stocky fellow, began to beat the other boys back.

"Git back, fellers!" he shouted. "Git back, I tell ye! Ye're scrougin' the life out o' Little Watts! Ye know he allus gits his papers fust. Git back, now!"

The other boys fell back, and out from among them came Little Watts, bearing evidence of having been pretty severely "scrouged."

His hat had fallen off, and he limped as he struggled forward. The rough boy who had befriended him in a way so surprising to me found his hat and put it on the boy's head, while he said:

"Ain't hurt, are ye, Wattsy? No? Well, that's good. Git yer papers now and light out, for they'll go like hot cakes this mornin'."

There stood next to the house in which I boarded a small house containing two or three rooms, which had not been occupied for several weeks.

One evening as I went home I saw cheap paper shades at the windows of this little tenement. Smoke was rising from the chimney, and on the step of the open door sat Little Watts playing on a harmonicon.

The door was within three feet of the street, and I stopped to say: "How do you do, Little Watts? Are you going to live here?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then we shall be neighbors. I live next door."

"I'm glad of it, sir," said Little Watts politely.

"You must come in and see me some time," I said. "I have a good many books, and you may use any that you like to read."

"GIT BACK, I TELL YE!"

A small, thin faced woman came to the door and looked inquiringly from me to Little Watts.

He rose and said: "Mother, this is Mr. Hart of the Leader. You've heard me speak about him."

"So I have," said Mrs. Watts quickly. "The Leader folks are real good to my boy, sir. He tells me about it, and I'm very much obliged."

The window of my room looked out upon the house which the Watts family occupied. A day or two after their arrival I was sitting in my open window. The windows of the other house were also open, and through them came the sound of some one singing in a wonderfully clear and sweet voice. I laid down my book to listen. The words came distinct and beautiful:

"Flow gently, sweet Afton, among thy green braes—
Flow gently; I'll sing thee a song in thy praise."

Could it be Little Watts singing in such a voice? While I looked and listened I saw Little Watts coming from a well at the back of the house with a pail of water.

I could not restrain my curiosity. As he came near my window I asked, "Who is that singing?"

"My sister Elise," he answered eagerly, his face beaming.

"She has a wonderful voice," I said.

"Hasn't she, though?" exclaimed Little Watts, with more enthusiasm than I had ever before seen in him.

"Did you ever hear any of those big singers?" he went on.

"Yes."

"Can they sing any better than she can?"

"Well, they are much older than your sister, and of course they are highly trained. How old is your sister?"

"Sixteen."

Before many days I and others in our neighborhood sat in the scantily

I ASKED, "WHO IS THAT SINGING?"

furnished living room of Mrs. Watts' house and heard Elise sing.

Mrs. Watts was a widow, and Elise and Clarence were her only children. A small pension partly supported their wants, and Mrs. Watts and Elise took in plain sewing when they could get it, but Little Watts' earnings from the sale of his papers were their chief source of income.

It seemed to me that they might live a little more comfortably, but one day Little Watts confided a secret to me.

"We're saving for Elise," he said. "She's going to be a big singer some day after she's gone away and studied and had a chance. I'm saving up for that."

This was the reason why Little Watts wore such shabby clothes, and this was why their home was so poor and bare and their table so scantily supplied. This was why Little Watts walked the streets in all kinds of weather, crying his papers at an hour when other boys slept.

One, two years passed. I was still in the Leader office. Little Watts still came before daylight for his papers and was called Little Watts still, for he was not noticeably larger or stronger than when I saw him first. He still lived next door to my own home, and—Elise was going away.

She had been singing in church choirs and at concerts, and some ladies who had become interested in her, but who were unable to lend her money for her study, had given her a benefit concert, which the Leader had widely advertised without charge on account of Little Watts.

But most of the money that was to pay for Elise's two years of study in the east had been or would be earned by Little Watts.

"But when I come back he shall work no more," Elise said to me, with the tears in her eyes. "I shall earn it then, and he shall go to New York to study drawing and engraving. He's so eager to learn it, you know, but he won't say much about it or even think about it until I begin to earn money."

Quite a little company of us went to the station to see Elise off. Of course Little Watts was there. His large eyes were shining through their tears, and his white face was wreathed in smiles, though I knew his heart ached with sorrow at the thought of two years without her.

But the boy cried his papers just as loudly and cheerily as ever next day—the Leader in the morning, when day was breaking, and the Times at night, when the day was gone.

I often met him hurrying around the corners of almost deserted streets or paying a last visit to the hotels, where he hoped to sell another paper at an hour when all other newsboys had gone home.

Every paper he sold counted, not for himself, but for Elise. He and his mother lived upon the pension and her sewing.

Every month a draft to the amount of all of Little Watts' earnings went to New York to Elise, and every week she wrote encouraging letters of what her teachers said about her voice and of her hopes for the future.

"I knew they'd have to say her voice wasn't anything common," Little Watts said proudly to me when the first of her letters came. "I knew she'd astonish 'em!"

Twice the mountains changed from green to white and from white to green. They were changing to white again when Elise wrote the letter that told when she would start for home.

Little Watts brought me the letter to read.

"I shall reach home about the last day of October," she wrote. "You need not send me any more money. I am afraid you have sent me too much now. It is time for me to begin paying it back to you. You must be here next year and I at home working and earning money for you. If I'm not too tired, I shall sing for you and mother the very night I come. I'm so anxious to show you how well your money has been spent!"

She was delayed a little and came on the third day of November. It was on the afternoon of the first day of that month that the man whose duty it now was to give out the papers said to me:

"Little Watts didn't show up for his papers this morning. It's the first morning he's failed to come since I've been here. I wonder if he's sick?"

"Not that I know of," I replied. "It was a terribly stormy morning, you know."

"The weather has never made any difference with him before. He's been on hand the first one many a morning worse than this. Poor little chap! How he's escaped pneumonia as long as he has is a wonder to me."

The sun had not shone for three days. First rain and then snow had fallen nearly all the time. A fierce cold wind had swept down from the mountains. The barren town had never seemed so gloomy and cheerless and desolate to me as it did now.

At noon I went to see Little Watts. His mother came to the door and said briefly and in a low tone, for Little Watts was in the next room and the door was open:

"He's real sick. The doctor is afraid it's going to be pneumonia. I've tried to keep him in the last three days, but he would go out. You see why."

Her eyes were full of tears as she pointed toward the corner of the room. There stood a shining upright piano, with a stool of crimson velvet before it.

"He made the first payment on them yesterday," Mrs. Watts said. "He was so anxious to have them here for Elise."

"Well, he's a perfect little hero, Mrs. Watts," I said under my breath, but heartily. "I believe he will be able to fight off even the pneumonia for the sake of Elise."

He was worse the next day.

"He'll never be any better," said the doctor in the afternoon when I met him coming out of the shabby little house.

In the evening Little Watts said in a whisper:

"She'll be here in the morning, won't she?"

"At 8 o'clock," I said.

"Then I'll hear her sing again," he answered.

The wind died away in the night. The skies cleared. All of the distant ranges, the nearer hills and the streets of the town were white with snow when the sun came out the next morning.

Elise came at 8 o'clock. Little Watts pulled himself up on his pillows to meet her and welcome her.

There was no sign in his eyes or face of sorrow in his heart at this ending of all his own hopes and plans for the future. He met Elise with a smile and with tearless eyes. For a moment she thought it must all have been a mistake about his being so ill.

"Now go and sing for me," he said after a few minutes.

They rolled his bed to the door that he might see her at the new piano. Elise sat before it with streaming eyes and sang the little ballads and the old songs he had loved so well.

"There was one," he whispered, "about 'the shining shore' and 'my Father hath many mansions.' Won't you sing that, Elise?"

She sang it with trembling voice, and while she was singing Little Watts looked up with wide open eyes as if he were gazing at something wonderful that he could not see and then sank back, his eyes closed forever.

THE BIG ELKSFEST

Arrangements Going on Apace For Big Attraction.

The interest shown in the meeting last Tuesday night for the purpose of furthering the purposes of the Elksfest was so great, that many new suggestions were made, new committees were appointed, and it was further decided to enlist the services, to some extent; of Elks not members of the local lodge, and of prominent citizens.

The matter of giving a very fine Fancy Dress Ball was taken up, and a special committee on the same appointed. Should this entertainment take place, it will be conducted in a strictly first calss manner, with the services of a costumer from Philadelphia engaged for the occasion, and with prizes given for the best costumes, and a splendid orchestra secured to furnish the music.

Owing to the fact that Wrightsville Beach, the latter part of the week commencing November 2nd, will be rendered useless for automobile racing, owing to high tides, the date set for the automobile races will be changed from Thursday, to Monday morning, November 2nd. It is probable that the fancy dress ball will be given Tuesday night.

Through the kindness of the Tidewater Power Company, the use of the old power house was given to the Elks, and in this, Superintendent J. E. Hatch and his men will construct and furnish all the floats, cages, properties, etc. of the Elks' Circus. Possession of this place was taken last week, and material for building the floats on requisitions was ordered so that work can commence at once. It was decided to build one large automobile up into a fancy yacht, or ship-of-State, colors to be used to be purple and white, and with sails and sailors, will be a very handsome float. The Exalted Ruler, the Mayor of the City, and the Governor of the State, will occupy this Ship-of-State.

MERGE THE OLD INTO THE NEW.

In this age of commercialism, materialism and progression, it seems as if our ideals are not so high nor our sentiments so lofty as they have been in the days past. The hurry and action of this busy world of today has taken our minds away from all that is not practical in its nature; we are so absorbed in the things essentially corporal that all else is excluded. We are not adhering in many respects to the high standard of our forefathers, that which has made the Anglo-Saxon nations the grandest people of the earth. Too often we read these words, in the closing lines of an aged citizen's obituary "A gentleman of the old school, of whom so few remain." While we are advancing in mechanism and inventions let us not recede from that true courtesy that marks the American, especially the Carolina citizen. Demand reverence and respect in your homes and in your schools. Practice the "Golden Rule," not as David Harum has it, but as we understand it to be. Remember "politeness costs nothing but may effect much."

SYNOPSIS.

Chapter I.—At the suburban home of Charles Wainwright, "high financier," he and his broker, Scott Gibbs, hatch up a scheme to corner Borough Street railway stock. They rely upon the support of Dick Horrigan, boss of the neighboring city who is coming to discuss matters. Alderman Phelan, the thorn in Horrigan's side, whom Wainwright is anxious to conciliate, is also coming. Among the members of Wainwright's household are his niece and nephew, Dallas and Perry Wainwright, and his secretary, Thompson, a secretive young man in whom the financier has implicit confidence. Judge Newman, a neighbor of Wainwright, whose continuance in office depends upon Horrigan's favor, requests Wainwright's intervention with the boss. Another visitor to the Wainwrights' is Alwyn Bennett, in love with Dallas, who is calling to ask her about her rumored engagement to Gibbs. Perry is in love with Cynthia Garrison, also a neighbor.. II.—Cynthia is the daughter of a bank president who nine years before the opening of the story was ruined by the dealings of the unnamed dishonest financier and shot himself. His son thereupon disappeared. Mrs. Bennett congratulates herself upon the immaculate record of her son's deceased father. Dallas refuses to marry Alwyn unless he does something worthy of his family and education. Phelan and Horrigan face each other. III—Phelan defies Horrigan. Judge Newman is turned down by the boss, but at Wainwright's request Horrigan agrees to reconsider his case. Horrigan becomes suspicious of Thompson, but Wainwright scoffs at the idea. Horrigan and Wainwright make a corrupt deal whereby the former, for a big consideration, is to procure from the board of aldermen a perpetual franchise for the Borough Street railway. The boss is worried by the reform movement threatening his power at the coming election and is casting about for a candidate for mayor with a clean record. He hits upon Bennett, who has some slight political experience. The latter accept, but warns Horrigan that, if elected, he will be absolutely honest and independent. IV.—Bennett is elected and appoints Cynthia his private secretary. Phelan tells him that the financier who caused the ruin of the Garrisons was Wainwright, who is also the power behind the crooked Borough franchise bill, with Horrigan and Gibbs. Dallas and Mrs. Bennett visit the city hall. V.—Gibbs tries to induce Bennett to sign the bill. The mayor's talk with Dallas is interrupted by Horrigan. VI—Bennett refuses to be bulldozed by Horrigan into signing the bill. The boss lacks one vote in the board of aldermen of the fourteen needed to pass the bill without the mayor's assent. Despite the fact that defeating the bill means impoverishing Dallas and Perry, whose fortune Wainwright has invested in Borough stock, Bennett vetoes the measure. VII—Bennett's plan to save Dallas and Penny is to have Perry sell Borough stock short. The mayor's opposition causes Horrigan and Wainwright to amend the bill, retaining, however, some of the most objectionable features. VIII—Alwyn's lovemaking to Dallas at the mayor's ball is interrupted by Horrigan. IX—Gibbs secretly plays false to Wainwright and Horrigan by buying Borough stock on his own account. Horrigan "fixes" Alderman Roberts, a wavering member of his "solid thirteen." X—Bennett warns Roberts against voting for the bill. In the presence of Cynthia, who is engaged to Perry, Phelan exposes Thompson as her brother, the long missing Harry Garrison, whereupon sister and brother embrace. Perry, entering suddenly, is astonished at the sight.

He turned again toward the door, but Phelan resumed, without seeking to stop him:

"A mistake, was it? I'm not a man who makes many mistakes, Mr. Garrison."

The retreating secretary halted as though struck.

"That is another mistake, sir," he said in a muffled voice. "My name is Thompson."

"Is it, though?" inquired Phelan innocently. "It's queer how I could get mixed up so. When I was chief of police there was a bank president named Garrison who shot himself after bein' swindled an' whipsawed by a financier who was his dearest friend. He left a little daughter, Miss Cynthia, who you was lookin' at so keen just now, an' a son, who disappeared. That was nine years ago, an' I only saw the boy once, so maybe I've overplayed my hand in pipin' you off for him. But," added Phelan, laying a strong, detaining hand on Thompson's shoulder, "here comes some one who can clear it up easy enough."

The secretary twisted in the iron grasp and sought vainly to break away as Cynthia and Perry entered.

"Cynthia's lost her fan," explained Perry at sight of the alderman. "She's had me looking all over for the measly thing. Wait here a minute," he added to her, "and I'll chase into the conservatory and see if we left it there."

And, depositing the girl in a chair, he bolted away in search of the missing article.

"Now then, young man," said Phelan. "If your name's Thompson, as you say, there's no reason why you should object to my introducin' you to this young lady. Step up, son."

Still holding the reluctant, struggling secretary by the shoulder, Phelan turned to Cynthia.

"Miss Garrison," said he, "here's a gentleman I think you know. Would you mind lookin' him over?"

Wondering at the odd request, Cynthia raised her eyes to the stranger. But the latter persistently kept his face averted

"I don't think I know him," she answered doubtfully. "There is something familiar about"—

The secretary shifted restlessly, unconsciously bringing his profile into her range of vision. With a gasp, Cynthia sprang to her feet, her face white, her eyes wide and incredulous.

"Harry," the girl was pleading, "you do know me!"

"It's not—it's—oh, Harry!" she cried in an ecstasy of recognition, flinging her arms about the secretary's neck. "Harry! Brother! Back from the dead! Don't you know me? It's Cynthia! Don't"—

"I am afraid you've made a very strange blunder, Miss Garrison," returned the secretary, his voice hoarse and tremulous. "My name is"—

"Your name's Harry Garrison!" Phelan shouted. "What's the use of lyin' to your own sister? I give you credit for havin' good reasons for callin' yourself Thompson, an' I think I begin to see what them reasons are, but when it comes to denyin' your own sister you're playin' it down low, whatever your game may be, and I've a good mind to"—

"Harry," the girl was pleading, "you do know me! After all these nine lonely years have you no greeting for me? Every night I've prayed that God would bring you back to me, and now"—

The secretary's pallid, expressionless mask of a face broke in a flash into a look of infinite love and yearning. With a single gesture he gathered Cynthia's fragile body in his arms and crushed her against his breast.

He gathered Cynthia's fragile body in his arms.

"Oh, my little sister!" he murmured, a great sob choking his words. "My little, little sister!"

Phelan cleared his throat and coughed savagely to express his contempt for the mist that sprang into his own hard old eyes. The sound recalled the secretary to himself.

"You've trapped me into this," he exclaimed, with a laugh that was half a groan, "and you must both promise not to betray my secret. It won't be much longer now, thank God! But you'll both promise, won't you?"

"Sure!" assented Phelan.

"And you, too, Cynthia?" pleaded her brother. "You can trust me, can't you?"

"Of course I can. If you insist, I won't tell any one. I"—

"I'm happier this minute than I've ever been in all my whole life!" smiled the secretary, again clasping his sister in his arms. "If you only knew, little girl, how I've longed for this!"

"Here's the fan!" announced Perry, hurrying around the corner of the doorway. "Found it under a"—

He stopped short, open mouthed, dumb and motionless. Thompson and his sister stood in close embrace before him, with Phelan looking on like some obese caricature of a benevolent fairy.

The fan slipped from young Wainwright's nerveless grip and fell with a clatter to the polished floor, its ivory sticks snapping like icicles.

CHAPTER XI.

At sound of the breaking fan all three participants in the strange reunion turned. For a second or more they faced the crimson faced, dumfounded Perry without a word. Here was an element in the affair on which neither Phelan nor Cynthia had counted when giving Thompson their promise not to reveal his identity. They gradually realized this, and it left even the ready witted Phelan speechless.

Perry himself was first to break the spell.

"Well," he observed, with an assumption of airy scorn that was meant to be annihilating, "you all seem quite happy. Don't mind me! I'm sorry to butt in on this cute little love fest, but I left a fiancee here. Perhaps one of you can explain what's happened to her since I"—

"Oh, Perry," exclaimed Cynthia, "don't be silly! I'll tell you all about it some time. It is"—

"Some time!" squealed Perry, rage battering down his attempt at sarcasm. "Some time! Maybe it might be just as well if you did condescend to explain. Here you promise to marry me, and ten minutes later I find you in a catch-as-catch-can hug with this ugly little shrimp and Phelan looking on as happy as if he'd eaten a canary! And then you've got the gall to tell me you'll explain 'some time!'"

He glared at Cynthia in all the majesty of outraged devotion, only to surprise on that young lady's face a look that indicated a violent struggle with the desire to laugh.

"This is funny all right, I guess not!" he snapped. "Cynthia, you've mauled and smashed a loving heart, and I'll make a hit with myself by forgiving you, but as for you," wheeling about and thrusting his furious face to within three inches of Thompson's immobile countenance—"as for you, I'm going to do all sorts of things to you the moment Miss Garrison will have the kindness to shassay out of the room. Your sorrowful relatives will have all manner of fun sorting you out when I've finished with you! Steal my sweetheart, would you, not ten minutes after I'd"—

"There!" interposed Phelan, shoving his powerful hulk good naturedly between the two younger men and linking his arm in Perry's. "Now you've got quite a bunch of hot words off your chest, an' you'll be in better shape to hear sense. Ain't you just a little bit ashamed?"

"Ashamed?" sputtered Perry. "Who? I? Well, that"—

"Yes, you, youngster, and if you holler like that in comp'ny I'll sure be forced to wind up by spankin' you. Now, stand off there—no, over there where you can see Miss Garrison—an' listen to me. So! Now, first of all, did you happen to be in love with this young lady?"

"It's none of your measly business, but I did."

"Why'd you ask her to hitch up with you for keeps?"

"Because I loved her and"—

"Because you had a lot of faith in her, too, hey?" persisted the alderman.

"Yes, and a nice way she's"—

"Pretty girl, too," mused Phelan as if to himself. "In my young days if I could 'a' got a little beauty like that to sign articles with me I'd 'a' thought I was the original Lucky Jim. I'd"—

"So did I!" interrupted Perry hotly. "I"—

But Phelan was continuing in the same abstract monologue:

"An' if I could 'a' seen from her eyes (like any dough head could see from Miss Garrison's) that she had a heart as big as a watermelon an' as true as a Bible text an' as warm as a happy man's hearth fire—well, if I'd seen all that an' got wise to the gorgeous news that that same heart was just chock-a-block full of love for my own ornery, cheap skate self I'd 'a' flopped down on both knees an' sent up a bunch of prayers to be allowed to go on dreamin' an' never, never wake up."

Phelan paused. This time Perry did not break in, and the half audible monologue continued:

"I'd have had the sense to know that a girl with eyes like those couldn't be a flirt an' couldn't double cross the man she loved if her life depended on her doin' it. I'd 'a' licked any guy that said she could, an' if I'd seen her kissin' another man I'd 'a' punched myself on the jaw an' called myself a liar. That's what Jimmy Phelan of the Eighth would 'a' done. An' "—

"Say," broke in Perry in a curiously subdued voice. "These eyes of mine do funny things sometimes. I'll bet $9 they played a joke on me just now. And even if they didn't I don't believe 'em. Cynthia, I'm dead stuck on you! You're all right even if you did happen to be acting a trifle eccentric a few minutes ago. You can explain or not, as you like. If you'll just say you love me, that's ace high with yours truly."

He slipped an arm about her waist as he spoke, awkwardly seeking to atone for his recent anger. The secretary looked at them for an instant, then said briefly:

"You can tell him, Cynthia. He's a good fellow. Come on, alderman. I think you and I still have something to say to each other."

Cynthia and Perry drifted away toward the conservatory again, quite oblivious of the others, while Phelan and the secretary made their way to a deserted alcove off the ballroom.

* * * * * * *

"I've been looking all over for you, Mr. Bennett," called Judge Newman, hurrying out through the chain of anterooms as Alwyn wandered out of the ballroom into the foyer a few moments later.

"Anything important?" asked Bennett, pausing in his stroll and greeting the older man cordially. He had known the judge as long as he could remember and had always had a decided liking for the pompous henpecked little dignitary. Surrounded as he was by political intrigue, heartache and association with rogues, the harassed young man rather welcomed the variety promised by a chat with his old friend of his boyhood.

"Anything important, judge?" he repeated. "Or are you just taking pity on a lonely chap and giving him a chance to chat with you over old times?"

"Well," began the judge, his customary air of pompous nervousness tinged by an almost conciliatory manner, "I would like to have a little business talk with you if you don't mind discussing work at a ball."

He slipped an arm about her waist as he spoke.

"Not at all. I've had the honor of dancing with three of your daughters this evening, and the least I can do is to repay such pleasure by"—

"Did you, really?" beamed the judge, on whom the unmarried state of his four fast aging girls rested heavily. "I'm sure Mrs. Newman will be pleased. But this business matter. You—you won't misunderstand me"—

"Of course not," replied Alwyn heartily. "You and I are too old friends, Judge, to"—

"I hope so; I hope so," conceded Newman, with growing anxiety in his tone. "You see"—

"I see you have some trouble coming to the point," said Alwyn, pitying the judge's evident discomfiture, "and I'm sorry you feel so. You were my father's friend, and I like to think of you as one of my own best friends. There surely should be no hesitation in asking anything in my power to grant."

Thus emboldened Newman blurted out:

"I—we—that is, seems to me you have been a little hard upon this Borough franchise bill, if you don't mind my saying so, Bennett. Couldn't you let up on them now?"

"Why, no, judge, I can't," replied Bennett, still failing to connect Newman with the Wainwright-Horrigan clique and attributing the judge's interest in the matter to an amateur's love of dabbling in politics. "I can't let up on that fight," he continued. "All perpetual franchises are wrong, and this particular franchise bill is rotten to the core. In sheer justice to my oath of office I must fight it."

"My boy," said the judge in a fatherly manner that he had often found successful in argument, "I was in politics long before you were born, and I'm speaking for your own good when I say I deeply regret the stand you've taken in this matter. You objected to the bill in its original form. Almost every change you demanded has been made in it. As the gentlemen who asked me to speak to you said"—

He checked himself a minute too late. The narrowing of Bennett's eyes and the vanishing of the friendly light in the young man's face warned Newman he had made a fatal error.

"So you come to me as an emissary, not as a friend," said Bennett slowly, "and the 'gentlemen' you come from"—

"Are the men who represent all that can make or break your career—capital and political organization."

"In other words, Wainwright and Horrigan?"

"Yes. All they ask is that you remain neutral; that you"—

"That I look the other way while they rob the city?"

"I am an old man, Bennett," evaded the judge, trying another tack, "and I've seen one rash step wreck many a bright career, just as this will wreck yours. Never antagonize wealth and the organization. The public for whom you sacrifice yourself will forget you in a month. Capital and politics never forget."

"I am not catering to the public. I am acting as my own conscience"—

"But this is stubbornness, not conscience. All you have to do is to remain neutral. If you do this I am authorized to promise you—now, listen—to promise you the nomination for governor when your term as"—

"That's the bait, is it?" cried Alwyn angrily. "If I consent to betray my trust I'll get the governorship. The bribe is golden, and I don't wonder at Horrigan for offering it. The only thing that surprises me is that he should have chosen such a man as you for his lackey and go-between."

"'Lackey!' 'Bribe!' 'Go-between!'" echoed the judge in real indignation. "How dare you, sir? This"—

"Isn't it a bribe," insisted Alwyn, "and weren't you the man chosen to offer it? It will do you no good to bluster or grow indignant. In your heart you know the words I used were deserved. The governorship offer was a bribe, pure and simple, and worthy the modern highwaymen who made it, but that you, a judge—a former friend of my own blameless father—that you should come to me on such a vile errand turns me sick. Heaven help justice and right when our judges can be controlled by a political boss and a roll of bills! That's all! I don't care to go further into the subject!"

Bennett walked away, leaving the little judge to stare after him, pink with wrath, speechless with amazement. In all his sixty years no man had thus laid bare to Newman his own heart, stripped of its garments of respectability and self deception. And, as usual in such cases, now that the truth had been driven home to him, Newman wrathfully denounced it, even to himself, as a lie.

Still flushed and incoherent, he wheeled to face a trio who were just returning from the supper room. They were Dallas, Gibbs and Wainwright.

"Hello!" exclaimed Wainwright in surprise. "What's the matter with you, judge? Are you ill?"

"If—if Mrs. Newman should come to know of this," sputtered the judge, glaring from one to the other, "she"—

"To know of what?" queried Gibbs. "What has happened?"

"Happened?" fumed Newman. "I have been insulted—grossly, vulgarly insulted!"

SOUTH WELCOMES JOHN W. KERN

Hundreds Greeted Democratic Nominee For Vice President at Macon Last Night.

CLEVELAND LETTER SPURIOUS

So Declared Kern to Query From New York Times—Produces Evidence to Show That It is Not Genuine—Campaign Document.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Macon, Oct. 3—Jno. W. Kenrn, Democratic Vice Presidential candidate, telegraphed his reply to a request from the New York Times for proof of the "spurious" nature of the letter attributed to the authorship of the late Grover Cleveland, as charged by Mr. Kern in a speech at Birmingham yesterday. The letter in question purported to show that Mr. Cleveland favored the candidacy of the Republican Presidential nominee, and Mr. Kern branded its use as a campaign document by Mr. Taft's campaign managers as an attempt to place a stigma upon the memory of the ex-President.

He further declared that although proven to be a fabrication the newspapers responsible for its circulation either have failed to right the alleged wrong or to have so placed the retraction as to attract no attention. The Times declared in a long telegram that reached Mr. Kern at Birmingham last night that the evidence against the genuineness of the letter was flimsy and called upon the Vice Presidential candidate to produce any proof he might have to bear out the charge made in his speech.

Mr. Kern's reply follows:

"When the executor of Grover Cleveland's will, after due examination, declared the letter in question to be spurious, it was but confirmatory of the opinion held and expressed by the suriviving members of President Cleveland's cabinet, his most intimate friends, and, as I understand, by Mrs. Cleveland. Every intelligent and fair minded man familiar with Mr. Cleveland's character, his language and manner of expression, must have been satisfied on a casual reading of the letter of its spurious nature. The manner in which the letter was hacked about the New York newspaper offices before it came out ought to have aroused suspicion of the Cleveland letter.

The direct evidence of Hasting's fortified by the opinion of those best qualified to testify, and the circumstantial evidence surrounding the case already alluded to, seems to have convinced everybody but the editors of the Times, that the letter was never written by Grover Cleveland. The Times owes to the American people the duty of righting this great wrong."

Accorded Rousing Ovation.

John W. Kern was accorded a rousing welcome when he reached Macon tonight. The station was packed with a wildly enthusiastic crowd and when he reached the auditorium where tonight's meeting was held, the big hall was likewise filled to its fullest capacity.

Mr. Kern talked on the tariff issues and spoke at length about the "dominating power" in power which he said "hangs like the sword of damocles over the heads of people." When he paid a tribute to Mr. Bryan whom he said was recognized the world over as "the champion of humanity" the audience applauded for several minutes. "They tell you he is not a safe man to put at the head of this Government," the speaker said. "The men who fanned the flames in the panic of 1893 are the safe men so called today. He is not a safe man for the lawless, for those who plunder the poor and fatten on their earnings, but safe to all who are engaged in honorable enterprise, and he is and will always be a safe man and a friend to every man whose heart is right and whose acts are just."

The only other public address made by the Vice Presidential nominee today was an after dinner speech to a company of prominent Georgia Democrats who attended a dinner in his honor at the Piedmont Hotel, Atlanta. Mr. Kern was introduced by Governor Hoke Smith who paid a graceful compliment to the Democratic standard bearers. Mr. Kern said his mission in the South was not to do missionary work but to pay a tribute to the Southern Democracy at the request of Mr. Bryan.

THE THAW TRIAL.

It has Already Cost New York County Over $54,000.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, Oct. 3.—The total cost to New York county of the prosecution of Harry Thaw for the shooting of Stanford White has been $54,837, according to papers submitted by District Attorney Jerome to Justice Mills at Newburgh today. The purpose of Mr. Jerome's application to Justice Mills was to have the approaching trial on the question of Thaw's mental condition transferred from West Chester to New York county. Mr. Jerome said in the papers that the trial in West Chester county would entail much greater expense than if held in New York county. Under these circumstances he cannot go to West Chester county to take part in the trial, he tells Judge Mills, and he asks that the trial be transferred to New York county "as convenience would be promoted and the ends of justice aided." October 12th has been fixed by Justice Mills as the date for the trial. There will be no jury, the justice alone taking the evidence.

WITNESSES IN HAINS' CASE GONE

Officers From Fort Hamilton and Friends of Hains' Brothers Transferred.

CONFLICTS WITH EVIDENCE

Were State's Witnesses and are Outside the Jurisdiction of New York Court—Believed They Will Be Returned.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, Oct. 3.—It became known here today that three army officers, said to be important witnesses in the Hains murder case, and friends of Captain Peter C. Hains, Jr., who is awaiting indictment on the charge of shooting W. E. Annis, have been transferred from Fort Hamilton by order of the war department to posts outside the jurisdiction of the New York courts. Consequently they will not be available to testify before the grand jury at its session Monday when District Attorney Darrin is to present the case for indictment. These officers are Lieutenant Farnsworth, transferred to Fort Stevens, Oregon, and Captain Patten and Lieutenant Andrus to the artillery school at Fort Monroe.

District Attorney Darrin who withdrew the Hains matter from the consideration of the special grand jury yesterday because of the absence of important witnesses, said today:

"I shall appeal to Washington at once to have the men returned to the jurisdiction of the Queens county grand jury. These men are familiar with the domestic relations of the Hains' family. They are important in proving the State's contention that the murder was deliberate and the work of sane men."

Colonel Ludlow, the commanding officer at Fort Hamilton, said this afternoon that Lieutenant Andrus and Captain Patten were ordered away from that post and reported at the artillery school at Fort Monroe, Va., on August 28th while Lieutenant Farnsworth went to the Pacific coast on August 1. He added that as far as he knew the transfers originated at Washington. He denied they could have had anything to do with the Annis case.

Captain Carpenter Investigated.

Washington, October 3.—An investigation made by Captain Carpenter, one of the assistants to General Murray, the chief of artillery, discloses that the orders to Lieutenant Farnsworth, Captain Patten and Lieutenant Andrus directing their transfer to posts away from the vicinity of New York were given a considerable length of time before the shooting of W. E. Annis.

By special orders dated July 8, First Lieutenant Edward E. Farnsworth was transferred from the 123rd to the 34th company of Coast Artillery, and directed to proceed to join the company to which he was transferred on August 1st, or upon the expiration of any leave of absence granted him. It is said at the department that no leave was granted Lieutenant Farnsworth.

By orders dated March 12th last Captain Huadon T. Patten and Lieutenant Malcom P. Andrus were ordered to report in person on August 28th to the commandant of the coast artillery school at Fortress Monroe for instruction there.

Secretary Wright said tonight that he had not received any request from District Attorney Darrin for the return of these officers to the jurisdiction of the Queens county grand jury. If their presence is desired and a request to that effect comes to him the Secretary will direct that the officers named comply with it.

GOMPERS CLAIMS UNJUST CRITICISM

Bitterly Arraigned Judge Taft For Assertion he Made in Denver Speech.

LABOR LEADER'S STATEMENT

Explains Taft's Reasons For Saying He is "Lying to His Followers." Declares He Has Lost Manners and Dignity.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Washington, Oct. 3.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, issued a statement tonight in which William H. Taft, the Republican candidate is bitterly arrainged because of the latter's charge in a speech at Denver last night that the labor leader was "lying to his followers."

"It is quite evident that candidate Taft is losing his temper as well as his manners and his dignity," asserts Mr. Gompers. He cannot meet the truth and the justice of labor's contention as regards his injunctions, his party's refusal in Congress to accord the relief from discriminating decisions against the workers in the injunction abue, and from the Sherman anti-trust law, under which the voluntary organizations of the working people are now held as trusts. I assert he cannot meet these issues and he therefore undertakes to resort to the well known policy of the pettifogger who has a bad case, that is by abusing the other side.

"The working people of the country know that Mr. Taft's ridicule and rasping sarcasm 'are not aimed at me, but at them, for there is not one thought I have expressed or one step which I have taken but which had their initiative in the rank and file of America's toiling masses, unorganized.

"But Mr. Taft, departing from his lighter vein of attack accuses me of lying. In what have I lied in regard to my regard to any matter, at least in regard to Judge Taft? Those who know me will attest my dependability and my veracity. Judge Taft is the first respectable man to question either?"

Mr. Gompers reiterates much which has previously said about the failure of the Chicago convention to grant the demand of labor also the attitude of the Republican majority in Congress toward labor.

"In so stating have I been lying or have I told the truth?" Inquires Mr. Gompers.

"Did not Candidate Taft read, or did not some one tell him that neither my colleagues nor myself have either by word or action assumed that we had either the right or power to deal the labor vote to any candidate? Does he now know that upon every occasion in this campaign that I have emphatically declared that I did not presume either to dictate to, or deliver the vote, if any citizen in the entire country, and had known this fact, is it fair for Mr. Taft to declare and reiterate so palpable an untruth?"

MORE HEARST LETTERS.

At El Paso Texas, He Reads Further Disclosures to Audience.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 3.—William R. Hearst carried his fight against the junior Senator from Texas into his own State when tonight he read in the course of a speech here letters from J. W. Bailey to H. C. Pierce, a copy of a note for $8,000 and extracts from a speech by Bailey in defense of Joseph Sibley.

"I said in Denver that I would deliver one final broadside at Mr. Foraker and Mr. Haskell and then leave them to the peaceful solitude of the tombs." He said. "I say here that I will give one final review of Mr. Bailey's spectacular career and then resign his into the hands of his constituents to be reverently reposed upon the vacant Democratic slab beside the late lamented Mr. Haskell, of Oklahoma.

"Mr. Bailey being a Democrat, denies the Standard Oil association and attempts to evade it."

Mr. Hearst first read a letter from John D. Archibold to Senator Foraker, Dec. 11th, 1900, referring to a telephone conversation of the same date and enclosing certificate of deposit of $5,000 to Foraker's credit. Then Mr. Hearst exhibited photograph of a letter in Mr. Bailey's handwriting on Lindsay House, Gainesville, Texas, stationery, March 28th 1908, to H. C. Pierce of St. Louis, in which the writer said "Send me my exchange for $1,750. Have it made payable to my order, so that it will not be necessary for you to endorse it. Send it at once as I ought to have had it several days ago." Next was a photograph of an entry on the books of the Waters Pierce Oil Co., acknowledging the $1,750 for legal expenses account "Texas matter" as per letter just shown. Next was a photograph of a note from J. W. Bailey, March 1st 1901, to H. C. Pierce for $8,000. Then the photograph of the entry on the books of the Waters Pierce Oil Co., and of a letter written from the Waldorf Astoria from H. C. Pierce to his secretary, requesting him to make the note in bills receivable and deposit company's check for like amount, is credit with Fourth National Bank as he had given "S. B." his check. Then came a letter from Archbold to Foraker stating that the former was going to Atlantic City for a rest and he could be talked with at the St. Charles Hotel. Lastly was produced by Mr. Hearst a letter from Archbold to Representative Sibley at Washington, stating that they were anxious to have a talk in New York on as early a date as possible with Senator Bailey, of Texas, and asking him to find out when Bailey could be there.

Mr. Hearst says all transactions took place in 1901 when Mr. Bailey claimed he did not know at that time that the Waters-Pierce belonged to the Standard. Then that talk with Mr. Archbold in New York as suggested in the letter.

Amid the wildest excitement Geo. Robertson, driving Simplex car No. 6 flashed across the finish line at the Brighton Beach race track at 10:30 o'clock last night, the winner of the second International 24-hour automobile race of the Motor Racing Association. Harry Cobe, driving a 50-horse power Lozier machine was second, and Montague Roberts, at the wheel of a 72 horse-power Thomas, was third. Six cars finished, all of them being Americans. The foreign cars, two French and two Italians, were put out of the contest by accidents as were three American cars.

Wilbur Wright, the American aeroplanist, who holds the world's record for an aeroplane flight established another world's record yesterday afternoon at Le Mans for time and distance with a passenger.
